ASK CULT DISBANDED

WOULD DISSOLVE HOUSE OF DAVID

GRAN DRAPIDS, Mich, Sept 21—Suit seeking dissolution of the House of David colony at Benton Harbor, Mich, and appointment of a receiver for the property of the cult was filed in United States district court here today by Mrs. Estella A. Meldrim, member of the cult for twenty years.

Mrs Meldrim, according to her attorneys, brought action against the colony after being convinced that "King" Benjamin Purnell had been associated with her daughters, Estella and Edith, during his alleged misconduct with women and girls at Shiloh.

RADIO OFFICERS TO TELL TALES

SAN DIEGO, Cal, Sept. 21—An unknown ship caused interference in radio signals on the night of the fatal Point Honda destroyer wreck by not listening before sending, according to the log of the Point Arguello radio station, introduced in the hearing at North Island today.

"One ship cuts in on another and one ship is off the wave length about 100 meters," said one of the entries.

SAN DIEGO, Cal, Sept 21.—The three men who attempted to save the destroyed flotilla from disaster on Point Arguello, but whose advices went unheeded, were to testify here today before the official board of inquiry.

They are three radio officers of the compass station on Point Arguello—Salls, Glasscock and Hamilton

On the fatal night they spent a feverish evening answering calls from numerous ships in the vicinity which wanted to determine their correct position. When the destroyers called in, the station men are said to have radioed the mthat they had not passed the dangerous point.

Officers of the fleet, however, presumed this advice was erroneous and proceeded on their own reckoning, which indicated the rocks were several miles behind them.

Reading from the log, Lieutenant Commander John M Ashley gave extracts that indicated much confusion in radio transmission prior to the crash He also made the statement that compass calculations of the Point Arguello station might have been affected by the fact that one mast at the station had been taken down at noon on the day of the wreck

"No calibrations at the station were made to test the effect of the mast being down," Ashley said.

On cross-examination, counsel for Captain Watson and Lieut. Commander Hunter of the flagship Delphi, made efforts to show that complaints had frequnetly been made of the Point Rrguello station's alleged inaccuracies

A telegram was read from J R. Stopper, whose vessel was not named, in which he declared that if he had followed certain Point Rrguello bearings on August 23 he would have been "put ashore on San Miguel island."

Ashley denied any knowledge of that complaint.

He said he did not believe the station could have been off as much as ten degrees when sending barings to the squadron of destroyers.

NAVY PILOT AND PLANE WHICH BROKE ALL WORLD'S RECORDS BY FLYING 244.15 MILES AN HOUR

Flying four times over a one-kilometer course at Curtiss field, Long Island, the new navy Curtiss racer, pulled by a 500 horsepower motor, averaged 244 15 miles an hour before being dismantled and sent to St. Louis for the international air races, October 1 to 3. One lap was made at a speed of 255 miles All the trials were electrically timed Lieut H. J Brown (shown above), who piloted the plane during the tests, will atempt at St Louis to capture for the navy the speed laurels now held by the army. Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, chief of the navy's bureau of aeronautics, believes the navy has the fastest "ship" in the world The racer, built especially for the Pulitzer trophy event at St. Louis, is only twenty-one feet in length and has a wing spread of only twenty feet.

TELLS OF SITUATION IN FOREIGN COUNTRIES.

Congressman Sloan Brings Some Suggestions From His European Observations to Kiwanis Club Members.

Increased production of livestock, both to enrich the land and to take care of the world in the aftermath of war, was held up as an essential policy by Congressman Charles Sloan in an address before Kiwanis club at the chamber of commerce Mr. Sloan returned from Europe a few days ago, and gave the Kiwanians the conclusions he had reached after his observations. He also spoke briefly on the American government, in line with the observance of constitution week as instituted by the national bar association

European wheat raising countries are rapidly coming back into the market, the congressman pointed out, and many of them will be entirely or almost self sustaining from now on, thereby affecting the market for the American surplus. On the other hand, replenishing of livestock herds has scarcely begun, and those herds that exist are menaced by tuberculosis, which Germany has just begun to fight, as the first nation in Europe to realize its importance At the risk of making himself unpopular with the farmer, Congressman Sloan advised decreasing wheat production instead of creating another large surplus and asking the government to guarantee a price for it.

Speaking of the constitution, the speaker said he thought the thing Americans most needed to have urged on them was respect for law, and implicit obedience on the part of all people. He pointed out the part the constitution plays in protecting the minority in its rights, and contrasted it favorably with the British constitution, which is too easily amended, and said the English people themselves recognized the superiority of the American constitution

ARRANGES TO HANDLE COAL

Mayor of Columbus Makes His Plans Following Receipt of Letter From Governor Bryan.

COLUMBUS, Neb., Sept. 21—Following receipt of a letter from Governor Bryan bringing assurance that the coal would be supplied upon his order Mayor Julius Nichols has completed arrangements for its handling and distribution by all local retail dealers in the city of Columbus

The price of $8.95 a ton delivered in the bin, includes a cost of $30 at the mine, $3 95 freight and a margin for the dealers out of which they pay the unloading and delivery expense and stand the loss due to shrinkage in transit.

All the Columbus dealers have joined in the agreement to handle the governor's coal on the basis which he prescribes and which includes the cash in advance feature. Delivery will be made direct from the cars to the customers' bins

LOW PRICE FOR POOR COAL

Des Moines Dealers Declare Experiment of Bryan Not to Influence Rates There.

DES MOINES, Ia, Sept. 21.—Coal prices can be cut only by selling cheaper grades or by eliminating cost of handling, Des Moines dealers said today.

The experiment of Governor Bryan of Nebraska in selling coal at reduced prices will not influence rates here, the dealers declared

"If Governor Bryan can get someone to handle the coal for him for nothing, he can reduce his price that much," Joseph G. Black, manager of the Des Moines Ice and Fuel company, said

"People may be attracted by the lower price to buy the cheaper grades once, but after that they demand the better coal." asserted F. V. Dole. vice-president of the Carbon Coal company.

CHAMP RECALLS LITTLE OF BOUT

OMAHA, Sept. 21.—Jack Dempsey, world's champion pugilist, who passed thru here this morning enroute to Salt Lake City, told Omaha friends that he hasn't a very vivid recollection of his fight with Luis Firpo at the Polo grounds, September 14 " He hit me in the first round and I was dazed," said Dempsey "I must have fought thru instinct because I do not know what happened exactly.

"I remember nothing in that first round except going to my corner when the bell rang"

Next time he fights Firpo h ewill be more careful, he said.

"That fellow can sure hit," he said, "and he can sure take 'em"

Dempsey denied he used unfair tactics as Firpo's handlers charged.

The much heralded "shiner" which Dempsey received in the Firpo battle was hardly visible A yellow spot under the left eye showed where it had once been.

SCOUR WOODS FOR LOST MAN

PHILLIPS, Wis, Sept 21—Charles A. Rockwood, wealthy Des Moines, Ia, club man, tire dealer and a major during the world war, is missing in the heavily wooded section of Phillips county. No trace of his has been found since he left a resort on a fishing trip last Friday

Sheriff August Johnson organized a band of twenty woodsmen and today searched thruout the country in an effort to find the man. Finding him will be only a matter of chance, the woodsmen said, as sound does not travel easily in the woods and it would be impossible to hear cries for help at a great distance.

Rockwood and his father-in-law, George Roach, Indianapolis, came here a week ago on a vacation Friday Rockwood went alone on a fishing trip When he failed to return here a search was started and his empty boat was found drifting on Mason lake. His hat was found on shore, some distance from the water Reports that men answering the description of Rockwood had been seen wandering in the woods or in lumber camps have been traced but nothing definite has been found as to his whereabouts.

PROFESSOR FILES APPEAL

Will Test in Supreme Court Tom Majors' Right to Discharge Him as Instructor.

Prof. J. Lawrence Eason, recently head of the English department at the Peru state normal, is to give the supreme court a chance to say whether Col. Tom Majors acted within the scope of legal authority when he discharged him in the middle of his term,

The petition in error was filed in that court Friday. It is an action in quo warranto to determine by what right Mr. Majors acted as he did and then named E. C Beck to succeed him. The district court sustained a demurrer by Mr. Majors, which has the legal effect of admitting as true, for the purpose of the case, what is charged in the petition, but insisting that it does not state a cause of action.

Mr. Majors is understood to have acted on what he claimed was authority from the state normal board to cut expenses at Peru to meet the decreased appropriation. Mr. Eason claims that it was not for that purpose that he was let out because Mr. Beck is to receive later a larger salary than was paid him.

FIRST AUTOMATIC TELEPHONE

Pawnee City Claims First System in the Country.

PAWNEE CITY, Neb., Sept. 21.—To the Pawnee Telephone company goes the distinction of being the first company in the United States to install an automatic telephone system. This system was installed about 1899 by the National Automatic Telephone company, a company which had been organized to put the invention on the market following its being discovered by Frank A. Lundquist, a young man living on a farm near Lindsborg, Kas.

When the system was installed in Pawnee City there were but forty subscribers It did not have the refinements of the present day and was capable of serving only 100 subscribers from the original installation and 100 from auxiliaries that might be added later. The number of subscribers grew so fast that the equipment then in its first stages of development had to be discarded.

TWO-MINUTE TOURS.

Known to only a handful of people on the Atlantic seaboard a generation and a half ago, and considered a tropical curiosity, the banana has become now the fruit of the American masses and hangs in great yellow bunches even in the remotest hamlets and in cross-roads stores, says the National Geographic society The figures for banana imports are staggering Between forty and fifty million bunches were brought in last year This allows several dozen bananas for each person in the United States Each day on an average nearly fifteen million bananas are consumed in the United States

The banana is supposed to have originated in India near the base of the Himalaya mountains, but a legend among eastern Christians asserts that it had a prominent place in the garden of Eden, and that it was a banana, not an apple, that Eve ate in her search for knowledge. Botanists were perhaps unconsciously influenced by this legend for they named two important species of the fruit Musa paradisiaca and Musa sapientum—fruit of paradise and fruit of knowledge.

A Real Sportsman.

Philadelphia Ledger: Sir Thomas Lipton is liked in America because in twenty-four years since he tried for it he has never said die to the prospect of winning the American cup, so coveted by international yachtsmen He has spent more than $3,000,000 to realize his dream of transporting the precious piece of silverware to the other side. The long strife of the gallant Irishman who has so often "luffed and lost," has not embittered his radient good cheer. Whether he wins or loses in 1925 on the fifth attempt which he came to America to announce, his reputation for good sportsmanship is the most durable trophy he could hope to win and that already is his permanent possession.

Why Wages Are High.

Jud Tunkins says it's a pretty serious matter to expect a bricklayer to work hard enough to earn such a big day's wages in so short a time.—

DISASTER BREWERS

Are earthquakes, storms cold waves and typhoons connected? There have been so many of them lately that this question needs answering

The year 1923 so far has had more than its share of natural disturbances It had the most stormy Atlantic ocean in history last January A record breaking train of cold waves swept down from Canada by unknown paths in February The Arctic ocean was warmer this year than for hundreds of years before on the Atlantic side, and colder than usual on the Pacific side There was a heavy earthquake in Persia in June and the most violent seismic shock in centuries in Japan in September Mount Etna erupted in the early summer Typhoons in the far east are biweekly happenings now, where before they seldom passed oftener than once or twice in a summer

The middle west had unusually warm weather for a while last winter, followed by unusually cold weather in the spring a record breaking hot wave in summer, and now a fall that has started out to be cool There must be more than an accidental connection between all these things

Earthquakes, storms and weather appear to be related to each other The exact way in which one hinges on the others is yet unfathomed but a few on the celestial rules are known It seems that the master key to them all lies in the sun and moon, particularly in sunspots

Earthquakes fall on the average of one severe disaster every five and three-quarter years Earthquake years are also volcano years

The moon also affects earthquakes There are more quakes when the moon is near the earth than when it is far away more when the sun earth and moon are in a straight line than when they are not, and more at a given point as the moon passes the meridian than when it is rising or setting About 20 per cent more quakes fall in winter, when we are near the sun, than in summer, when we are far away

ITALY WINS OVER LEAGUE

Assembly Approves Action of the Council.

MUSSOLINI STANDS VICTOR

Many Delegates Wanted to Assert League Supremacy.

Question of Competency to Adjudicate Greco-Italian Dispute to Be Submitted to International Jurists.

GENEVA, Sept. 21.—Mussolini's victory over the league of nations was made complete today when the assembly approved the action of the council in voting to submit to a commission of international jurists the question of the league's competency in the Greco-Italian dispute.

It was understood that until the last minute, Italy threatened to quit the league should any unfavorable discussion occur. Many delegates wanted to assert the league's competency but were overruled. As far as the league is concerned the whole question now becomes a closed incident.

ATHENS, Sept 21.—The Italian government officially ordered formal evacuation of the island of Corfu to start today, according to Rome advices.

Previously, airdromes had been dismantled and munitions turned back from the island, which was seized by Italy as a punitive measure against Greece after the slaying of the Italian commissioners at Janina.

It is understood here that the order for evacuation of Corfu is a result of the Greek apologies for the incident, made when Greek warships saluted the Italian flag and the allies in the bay of Phaleron and Greek ministers attended memorial services for the victims.

The children are: Lewis, eleven; Harry, nine; Lorettia, seven; LeRoy, four; Loren, one and one-half years, and Martin, five weeks. Those who are old enough will be placed in school, according to Supt. J. A. Murray, of the orphan's home.

SUPPORT FOR THE ASSEMBLY

LAYMEN MAKE RECOMMENDATIONS TO CONFERENCE.

Frown Upon Church Members Violating Edict by Dancing and Card Playing and Unanimously Sustain the Discipline.

Miss Ella M. Watson of Lincoln was elected delegate-at-large to the grand Methodist conference which convenes in May at Springfield, Mass. Her election took place Friday afternoon at the Methodist state conference.

At a meeting of the Nebraska Lay Conference Friday morning, the Nebraska Methodist Conference was requested to include in its financial budget such an amount of money as will provide at least $2,500 annually for the purpose of making improvements and repairs on Epworth park at Lincoln where the assembly holds its annual program. The resolution was unanimous.

Preceeding the resolution it was pointed out that the Methodist church has committed itself to a great program of Christian education and that the lay conference believes that the Epworth league institutes and the Epworth Assembly are part of this great program.

Dancing and card playing which had found a foothold were unanimously frowned upon. It was voted to sustain the church discipline. This action was taken when resolutions against card playing and dancing passed by the Nebraska Conference Epworth league passed in August were approved.

A vote was taken on the election of a delegate-at-large and about twenty candidates entered the race. No one candidate received sufficient votes and another ballot was to be taken at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon. Miss Ella Watson of Lincoln led the candidates on the first ballot taken The

TREASURY OFFICIAL SEEKS ASSISTANCE

It will be the object of Mr. Moss to conclude an agreement to put a stop to the exportation of liquor from Canada to this country. The government has just made the announcement that it has become necessary to resort to international measures to keep the United States dry, and that the Canadian government has signified its willingness to give every possible aid.

next highest received only twenty-one votes. It was then the pleasure of the conference to place the five highest candidates for election Among the five were Miss Watson, A. R. Talbot, Judge Spurlock of York and M. D. Camerson of Omaha.

HIGHLANDERS CASE ARGUED

SECOND TIME SUPREME COURT HAS HEARD THE LAWYERS.

Involves Legality of Rate Schedule Passed at the 1921 Session of the Executive Castle of Order.

The supreme court listened to arguments Friday afternoon in the case brought by William A. Widener and others testing the legality of the schedule of rates ordered put into effect by the executive castle of the Royal Highlanders at its 1921 session. This is the second time the case has been argued. The first time was before a part of the court when it was sitting in sections. This time all the members able to be present were on the bench.

A special session of the executive castle met in 1919 and adopted a scale of rates that Widener successfully attacked in the supreme court. That tribunal held that in spite of the interpretation of a by-law upon which the Highlanders had acted for a long time, its clear language was that when delegates were elected to an executive castle their terms ended when the session ended and did not cover four years.

When the regular four year executive castle meeting was held in 1921 it adopted unanimously the schedule that had been found to have been illegally adopted at the special 1919 session. Mr. Widener attacks this schedule as discriminatory against the older members and in favor of the younger members. He says that the Highlanders does not have a representative system of government as demanded by the statutes and attacks the expense loading as discriminatory and illegal. He charges that the officers exercised an undue influence over the delegates, and wants the whole thing enjoined. J. C. McReynolds represented him.

For the Highlanders E. J. Hainer and O. B. Clark maintained that it fully complies with the requirements of the law with respect to a representative form of government, that the officers exercised no undue influence over the delegates, and that the plaintiff mistakes leadership for coercion. They said that the charge is an insult to the democratic and loyal Americans who compose the membership. They said that while it was true that the older members must pay more, the schedule of rates is actuarially just, and remedies a condition whereby the younger members were discriminated against in favor of the older members. These, it was asserted, had been paying so much less in the past than they should that it was but just that they make up the deficit by higher raes

The matter of placing the Epworth assembly more definitely under the conference was presented in brief resolutions. The board of control chosen tentatively by the assembly in the summer was formally endorsed and a vote taken for the conference to appoint a committee to meet with the Epworth assembly board to propose some plan of cooperation between the Nebraska conference and the Epworth assembly to be presented to the confrence at the meeting in 1924.

Many of the ministers expressed an audible "Amen" to the recommendation in the report on conference policy suggsting that no financial campaign of public solicitation of funds be undertaken during the year 1923-24. The report stated that the Nebraska church membership had grown in ten years from less than 60,000 to more than 73,000.

Following a talk by Dr. Dunlavey, president of the Iliff school of theology, a resolution was adopted endorsing a memorial to the general conference asking that financial support be provided by the conference for the theological schools.

A check for $15,399.41 was presented to the presiding bishop, this amount representing the interest received during the year on the conference claimants endowment. This fund was started in 1916. A report showed that new bequests to the amount of $40,500 had been received during the year. The total fund, productive and non productive amounts to over $400,000, but was said to be far too small. The income was insufficient to pay the claims in full during the year just passde.

The conference delegates are to visit the Bryan home, now the property of the church, and will leave Grace church in automobiles at 4 30 p m for that purpose

A VICTORY FOR POINCARE

Paris Morning Papers Declare German Offer to Surrender Proves Finesse.

PARIS Sept 21—Premier Poincare has scored a great victory and Anglo French solidarity is restored, the Paris morning papers declare, in commenting on the German offer to surrender.

A marked change in the attitude of England is noted following publication of Germany's peace offer made thru the Belgian minister to Berlin.

Other papers declare it was Anglo French solidarity that caused Germany to capitulate.

[illegible] Pertinax writing in the Echo de Paris says Franco-Belgian unity is stronger than ever. Germany's dislocation will be evident shortly and she will be forced to recognize her defeat."

What Shall Be Done With the Speeder?

Dr. J. M. Birker: "Put the speeder in jail. Take away his or her license."

John M. Stewart: "Severe punishment should be inflicted on a repeated flagrant violation of the speed limit. It should demand a jail sentence. The legislature should enact more stringent laws as has been done in other states to the extent of requiring drivers to secure licenses and revoking licenses in case of violations of the law. In extreme cases forfeiting the title to the automobile."

Dr. John M. Mayhew: "I thought of a state driver's license which could be automatically taken away from the driver upon conviction of unlawful speed. Anyone who drives a car ought to have a driver's license."

George M. Christian, president of the Lincoln automobile club: "Enforce the laws impartially in the city not only as to speeding but all other ordinances covering reckless driving. Establish some system of policing the public highways and curbing speeders and reckless driving outside of the city limits. It is my opinion that most automobile accidents are caused by other than speeding by reckless and incapable drivers. I would suggest that some law be enacted that would require all auto drivers to pass an examination showing their capability of driving a car before licenses are issued and that all auto drivers should be licensed."

OFFERS BALL GAME ALIBI

Charles Fulton and Friends Say He Was in Beatrice Day Officers Charge Sales.

Charles Fulton told a federal jury Friday that he could not have sold liquor to state agents at his garage on May 27, because at the time stated he was attending a ball game in Beatrice. He told a detailed story, supported by a number of witnesses, of his activities on the day in question, declaring he drove to Beatrice with a party and attended a doubleheader in which Beatrice was victorious, took supper with his father-in-law, James Freeman, returned to Wymore at 9 o'clock and drove a party of four to Humboldt, returning at 10 o'clock.

J. C. Kerns, state law enforcement officer, testified Thursday that he had bought a pint of liquor from Fulton at the latter's garage in Wymore at 3.30 that Sunday and another at 6 o'clock, and produced the bottles he said he had bought. Futlon's alibi is supported by the testimony of Jack Wall, taxi driver in his employ. Ed Hughes, one of the group said to have attended the game and visited at the Freeman home; and Mr. Freeman himself. Fulton denied having sold liquor to Kerns at any time. Otto Dudsches, another state agent, and Sheriff Sailing of Beatrice, told of a raid on the Fulton home the night of June 9, which netted a quantity of moonshine.

Taking of testimony was completed at noon and arguments to the jury begun at 1 o'clock.

STATE TREASURER DRAWS UPON BANKS

Two Hundred and Fifty Called Upon for Total of $300,000 to Be Invested in Bonds.

State Treasurer C. D. Robinson has sent notice to 250 banks that he regrets to say it is necessary for him to drawn upon them for a small amount of state funds on deposit The total amount to be drawn is about $300,000, sufficient to pay for bonds which the board of educational lands and funds has decided to purchase as an investment for the permanent school fund. The bonds will draw 5 per cent or more. State deposits in banks draw 4 per cent.

The state treasurer's letter under date of September 19, contained this explanation:

"I am calling on the banks only as a last resort, as it was my desire to leave all of your deposit with you just as long as possible It was my plan to leave an uninvested balance in the permanent school fund in order to help out the banks, but the board of educational lands and funds has taken action that we must keep all the balance in the permanent school fund invested in order that sufficient interest may be earned for the support of the schools

"In addition to this, the receipts are very light at this season of the year, and the expenditures heavy. You may rest assured that we will try to redeposit the amount called just as soon as we have a sufficient surplus."

The state had a deposit of $5,000 in the Farmers State bank of Dixon which is being consolidated with another state bank at that place. This deposit was placed in the bank September 25, 1922, by the former state treasurer It is to be cared for the same as private deposits in the closed bank.

OUTER EDGES OF YEGG DEN

WOMAN SUSPECT GO-BETWEEN KEEPS CURTAINS DRAWN.

Altho Found With Stolen Bonds to Value of $5,000, Agnes Monohan Alias Bobby Weaver Has Gained Freedom.

Agnes Monohan alias Bobby Weaver, suspect yegg go-between on whose person was found $5,000 of bonds stolen from banks of Nebraska, Kansas and Missouri, was at liberty on $10,000 bail within two hours after her arraignment at Kansas City Thursday before a United States commissioner

She was cornered by R H. Channell, representing the American Railway Express company, but declined to recognize one who, on another occasion, trailed her to Mt Ayr, Ia, where she represented herself to be a sister of Fred Stacey then being tried for looting the bank of Redding, Ia, of $5,000 Stacey and his pal William Fuller were sentenced to serve forty years each for that job. Stacey was released from Ft Madison prison on July 10th last and soon pulled the Redding robbery.

After her arrest in the Kansas City union depot, the woman first claimed that she found the bonds in her garage. Later she said that they were left in her charge by Stacey. Then came Channell on the scene with the sister story. He returned to Lincoln late Thursday night. He went on a double mission In one respect, he was unsuccessful since no trace was found of thirty-three express money orders taken from the Tobias bank January 19, 1923. He also investigated Nebraska bank robberies for the state law enforcement bureau and in this, he had considerable success.

According to Mr Channell, the woman took the bonds to the Kansas City depot for the purpose of meeting one who expected to dispose of them. She was a bit careless in her display of the bonds and her actions aroused suspicion. An inspection of the property indicated that in the $5,000 loot were bonds taken in bank robberies at Tobias and Gilead, both in Nebraska, Marrowville, Circleville, Carbondale and Dorer banks, all in Kansas and a robbery at Wallace, Mo.

Some of the bonds have been identified. One is known to have been duplicated by the government which is prosecuting the case. Two bonds of the value of $100 each were, at some time prior to the Tobias looting, shipped by the Kansas City federal reserve bank to Tobias. These are in the name of Edward Zenisek. Four bonds of $100 value each were shipped by the federal reserve bank to the state bank of Gilead. They are in the name of Leo H. Schnase.

Bonds to the value of $650 have been identified as having been shipped to Morrowville bank. Bonds to the value of $500 have been identified as a part of the loot from the Circleville robbery of June 16th last. Ownership of bonds to the value of $3,250 found on the woman has not been determined.

Mr. Channell believes that these and other lootings in this state were perpetrated by representatives of a big gang operating out of Kansas City and St. Joseph and probably with a branch at Council Bluffs. There's a similarity in the work which causes him to reach this conclusion.

"The Redding and Tobias jobs were identical", he said. "In each instance, yeggs climbed a telephone pole and clipped the wires. At both places section houses were robbed of tools. In each instance these tools were left in the bank after the jobs had been pulled. I am satisfied that the money from Nebraska bank robberies has gone south. I am also certain that the arrest of one yegg or a group of yeggs will not reach the heart of the thing unless they confess. And these men do not confess."

Following is a list of bonds not yet traced to the bank from which they were taken. Owner or owners of any of these may communicate with State Sheriff Carroll for further information.

WALTON SPEEDS UP INQUIRY INTO KLAN

Military Court Hopes to Complete Work Before Special Session.

PUBLIC OPINION COUNTED UPON

Governor Believes Revelations Will Aid Him.

"PATRICK HENRY" IS ACTIVE

W. D. McBee, Who Issued Call for Special Session, Is the Leader of Revolt Against the Executive.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 21—The military court investigating operations of the ku klux klan in Oklahoma county today speeded up examination of witnesses in hope of completing its work before the special session of the legislature, called to impeach Governor J. C. Walton, meets next Wednesday.

The governor hopes that by uncovering sufficient testimony involving the klan and its members in lawless acts, that the public sentiment of the state and the nation will support his stand and oppose the impeachment action.

In making public first sensational testimony obtained by the military court, the governor declared "it necessary I will arm every man in the state who is opposed to the invisible empire."

The testimony made public included declarations by Dr. A A Maupin, a dentist and klan member, who said that N. C. Jewett, grand dragon of the Oklahoma klan had admitted to him that he wielded the lash in a flogging.

Maupin Quotes Jewett.

He quoted Jewett as saying:

"I want you to understand, I am the man who laid it on. led that party; I held the whip and put it on his back and made him confess."

"If there ever was a time since 1776 that red blooded Americanism should assert itself, this is the time," Oklahoma's "Patrick Henry" declared today.

"Patrick Henry" is the name his fellow legislators have applied to W. D. McBee, obscure country lawyer who has become the leader of the "revolution" against J C Walton's drastic military rule in Oklahoma

Here in the state capital where machine guns frown down upon the streets and martial law prevails, McBee has defied Governor Walton by calling a special session of the legislature to impeach him.

"We have called the legislature together," McBee continued, "for an impartial investigation of charges of the existence of conditions in this state that are in direct opposition to the principles for which our forefathers fought. The legislature will try the issue as a court.

"We intend to be impartial, fair and honest. We shall be governed by the facts that the inquiry discloses. We shall be just as ready to exonerate as to condemn.

"The men who have issued this call represent no particular class, faction, religion or party. We stand united and determined to uphold principles of government of, for and by the people.

"The governor has threatened to throw us in jail. Very well, I would lie in jail until I rotted rather than part with our ideals of American liberty.

"Preservation of Liberties."

"The legislature will meet. The investigation will be made. Our consciences will be our guide and the preservation of American liberties our object."

McBee looks and acts like a man who means what he says. Just under fifty, of medium but muscular build, and with a hand shake like a lemon squeezer and eyes that look unflinchingly into yours, he seems like a human dynamo of energy.

He runs things at "rebellion headquarters" at a hotel here where the anti-Waltonites are gathering Only two block away is the hotel where the military has G H Q The call for the legislature to assemble, which McBee wrote is already coming to be looked on by some Oklahomans as a second declaration of independence It is a stirring documnet.

McBee describes himself as a "two-by-four country lawyer" He was born in Austin, Tex, and practiced in New Mexico before coming to Oklahoma seven years ago He never went to college but read law in an office

Tho he has been warned of personal danger, McBee goes about unarmed and unguarded

Oklahoma today is waiting to see what will happen next Wednesday when the legislature attempts to meet in response to McBee's call. Police estimate that more than 10,000 will be present at the state capitol to watch the results of the legislature's defiance of Governor Walton.

Fight to Finish.

The governor made it plain that he was in the fight until the finish

"I have crossed the Rubicon," he said "and it is a fight to the finish. Jewett and his invisible empire shall not pass in this state."

The governor said that every effort was being made to hamper his fight

LITTLE FRAUD IN CONTRACTS

GOVERNMENT FAIRLY DEALT WITH DURING WARTIME.

Former Congressman Reavis Says So After Examining Many Thousands of Them as Government Attorney.

Former Congressman Reavis, who has been busy for a year and a half on work connected with the investigation of contracts made with the government during the war, said on his return to Lincoln that contrary to the opinion often expressed, it was very rare that any persons having contractual relations with the United States during the war perpetrated or attempted any fraud.

oNt one person in ten thousand, he says, has been found, after rigid investigation and examination, not yet entirely completed, to have acted dishonestly or unfairly with the government Very few individuals or companies, he says, took advantage of the government when it was wounded and in distress to line their pockets The number who did is almost negligible. For the most part they acted honestly and patriotically, many losing large sums on these contracts while few made more than a just and reasonable profit.

Where most of the war fraud cases have arisen has been out of transactions connected with the disposition of the huge surplus of supplies left on hand when the war suddenly closed. Mr. Reavis spent seven weeks before a grand jury in New York, where he secured the indictment of a large number of men, including army officers who are charged with acting in collusion with purchasers of stuff, in the disposition of surplus goods. He goes back November 17 to resume the prosecutions.

One particularly flagrant method employed was for dealers in the surplus goods offered for sale to form a pool that destroyed competitive bidding. After the goods had been sold to some member of it the others met and either divided the stuff at the price paid for it or accepted $500 or $1,000 for staying out of the competition.

The work is so tremendous a one, says Mr. Reavis, that it is difficult to give the public an idea of it He has had, for instance, eleven men, working seventeen months, on what is known as the salmon case Mr Reavis, it should be said, was in charge of the investigation of the 150,000 contracts made with the quartermaster's department Salmon was in great demand as a war ration by the allies, because it kept indefinitely and was well liked The government paid a high price for the fish, $12 and $14 a case.

Millions of cans were left on hand when the war closed. A deal was made by the representatives of the government by which the salmon packers were to take back the fish at the price paid less [illegible] cents for restenciling, freight and other charges. The net result of the reclamation contract was that instead of getting $12 or $14 a case the government got but $6 a case. The government is suing the packers for the difference, claiming it was a fraud on it and that none of the men who acted for it could bind it to so unconscionable a contract.

The salmon packers also got in bad thru their packing in haste and without proper preparation, many thousands of tins whose contents speedily became putrid. Fortunately the government found this out before any of it reached the boys. These tins were against the klan financially. He said

"I call upon all good people who believe in a representative form of government immediately to assist us financially and to make all remittances to Mrs Alderich Blake, Oklahoma City."

The testimony made public by the governor included admissions from the following officials of Oklahoma county that they were members of the klan:

J. M. Wright, county attorney; Tom Cavner, sheriff; Judge W Clark, district judge, who had summoned the special grand jury to indict Governor Walton on charges of illegal use of state employes. Dr. Maupin said the first organization meetings of the klan in this city were held in Judge Clark's court room

Telling of the start in Oklahoma of the klan Dr. Maupin testified:

"A man named McCarron came here from Houston to teach anti-Catholic, anti-Jewish and anti-foreign propaganda and whipping parties for men who disobeyed orders of the klan, and tar and feather parties and mutilation for negro porters and others deemed to be justly entitled to have such penalties inflicted upon them

"Pretty soon the klan was filled with men of all stripes.

"The first criminal acts I heard about was when the grand goblin of the state of Texas told us how they had whipped a negro dentist in Galveston"

Tried to Gain Walton.

Efforts to induce Governor Walton, then mayor of Oklahoma City to join the klan were related by the witness. He said that Jewett and other klan leaders then decided that if Walton ever "caused any trouble" they would say he had tried to get into the klan but was turned down

On one occasion he said, a man named Marriam was whipped for alleged intimate relations with a woman whom he had known many years. Investigations showed, the witness stated, that the charges were false and when he confronted Jewett with these facts he said the grand dragon admitted having applied the lash.

Governor Walton declared the civil courts were still functioning as usual and that the rights of habeas corpus was not being denied and had not been denied except in Tulsa county where "it was absolutely necessary" to allow the military to obtain evidence.

A drive to stamp out pop bottle throwing at ball games was launched with the arrest at Chicago, of a man charged with throwing a bottle at an umpire who made a close decision.

LITTLE FRAUD IN CONTRACTS

also included in this reclamation contract that the government seeks to repudiate.

Mr. Reavis said that the department of justice had every contract examined for the reason that it was just as essential that every man who acted honestly and patriotically should be given a clean bill of health as that every crook should be caught. In his department he had fifty or sixty men examine each contract, testing it by a set of questions he had prepared. Where it showed clean it was returned to the department with the notation that this man did his duty and acted the par of a pariot.. If any discrepancy showed up it then went to the accounting department, which is an expensive proposition. By using the examiners this expense was minimized. In the salmon cases Mr. Reavis says the evidence accumulated would fill a box car.

Six millions have so far been recovered in cash, and the government has judgments for many millions where an appeal has been taken. On the $500,000 appropriated for this purpose the government is certain to realize at least fifteen millions. Many civil and criminal cases are on the dockets, and congress has extended the statute of limitation indefinitely so that none may escape by pleading this bar to prosecution.

PUT DEFECTIVES TO DEATH

Certain Tribes of East Africa Expose Children Considered Unlucky.

LONDON.—(By Mail.) —"Children born with some abnormality, or considered by the diviners to be unlucky for a great diversity of reasons, are done to death," according to a passage from the British governor's report on Tanganyika (formerly German East Africa) recently issued.

Among those considered "unlucky" are those whose lower teeth are cut before the upper and those whose parents have failed to undergo initiation into certain tribal ceremonies. These children are killed by deliberate starvation and neglect, suffocation, poisoning, or injury at birth. Or, if a less obvious method is required, they are exposed to the unhealthy climate of the low country.

In many districts, it is stated, where tribal cohesion is lacking, the chiefs have scant control over their subjects. For the most part men in middle life, they are brought up to the enjoyment of despotic privileges, of which they have been shorn, and are unable to adapt themselves to the new order instituted by the British.

They are in sympathy with the past, and accustomed to beer-drinking, bhang-smoking and hunting; are unwilling to report or suppress the evils to which they themselves are addicted.

"In some areas where the old tribal organizations had been destroyed in the process of the establishment of German authority," the report says, "chiefs of importance had disappeared and in their places numerous petty headsmen had sprung up, exercising little influence and commanding no respect."

In certain districts game multiplied amazingly during the war. The boldness of lions is incredible. It seems that during the war they acquired a taste for human flesh and have retained it. Whole villages have been terrorized by their presence, but their extermination by the native trappers is a matter of great difficulty. In half a year rewards were paid for the destruction of 300 lions and 800 leopards.

The report states that elephants also do great damage to crops, often ruining a whole plantation in a single night, or, entering villages, they strip the roofs off grain stores and scatter or consume the contents. Eland, also, are very destructive to young cotton plants, of which they are very fond.

NO LONGER FOR THE LEAGUE

Underwood Admits That View of League Working Causes Change of Heart.

CHICAGO, Sept. 21.—Senator Oscar W. Underwood, Alabama, an avowed candidate for the democratic nomination for president, has had a change of heart towards the league of nations, he admitted.

Underwood, on his way to Washington after a hunting and fishing trip in the Wisconsin woods, stopped in Chicago long enough last night to state he was no longer a strong advocate of the league.

"My original views are well known, but I have been to Europe and seen the league at work and my attitude is changed," he said.

"The failure of the league to function in the dispute between Italy and Greece has had much to do with the change."

Underwood would not say whether he intended to champion an anti-league plank in the democratic national platform.

"What were her reasons for refusing you?"

"Well, it sounded like an essay on eugenics, genealogy and finance."—Boston Transcript.

STEPS TO END PRESS STRIKE

BERRY OFFERS TO OUTLAW NEW YORK UNION.

Would Make New Contract With Publishers, Who Consider Offer and Will Make Decision Friday.

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—Definite steps towards ending the New York pressmen's strike and restoring the city's newspapers were taken today.

Major George L. Berry, president of the international union, offered to outlaw the local union which called the strike, now in its fourth day, and make a new contract with the publishers.

The latter considered the offer at a meeting that lasted into the early morning and were to give their decision after another meeting at eleven o'clock today.

The contract proposed by Berry would be with the international union. The charter of local No. 25 would be revoked and new cards issued to the men who went to work.

Publishers claimed that this morning's "combined" editions represented 70 per cent of the normal output.

The "combined news" were of eight pages, with little advertising and many of the members of the combination ran "boxes" with the day's news in tabloid form.

Beautiful fall modes are vieing with movie stars in working their spell on the audiences attending the Rialto this week. Evening dresses, afternoon frocks, suits and imported models, both originals and copies, are shown in this apparel display by H. Herpolsheimer company. Eight sorority girls wear the garments for the promenade. The evening models dazzle with rhinestones, beads and metal brocades. A beaded model which is made of solid cloth of white beads is the outstanding evening gown. Gorgeous fans and other novelties are worn with the gowns.

MEXICO SEEKS COLONISTS.

MEXICO CITY.—(By Mail.)—Thousands of colonists are expected to settle in Mexico before the end of this year. Recognition of Mexico by the United States is expected to open the flood gates. The present troubled conditions in Europe are expected to aid Mexico considerably in securing citizens of those countries to come to Mexico. Choice lands will be secured for the colonists.

RUSSIA'S POPULATION.

MOSCOW.—(By Mail.)—Moscow's population is about 1,500,000, against 1,700,000 in 1912, according to the recent census. The population of Petrograd (formerly St. Petersburg), is given as 1,067,228. This census gave the population of Russia proper as 24,000,000 but the Caucasus, Murmansk, Turkestan and the far east was not counted.

ATTORNEYS GENERAL TO CONSIDER OIL

Meeting Likely to Be Held at Chicago October 15 to 17 to Discuss Oil and Gasoline.

Attorney General O. S. Spillman has tentatively agreed ot call a conference of attorneys general of forty-eight states at Chicago, to be held at the Old Colony club, October 15, 16 and 12. He will issue a statement Saturday definitely announcing the time and place. He was authorized by the national conference of attorneys general to call a conference for the purpose of considering what action, if any, shall be taken in regard to monopoly in the sale of oil and gasoline. Evidence gathered by attorneys general will be considered at the meeting and possibly other information will be obtained at the meeting. If state or federal laws are deemed insufficient to cope with present conditions the conference will recommend amendments. The conference intends to cooperate with the federal department of justice in dealing with questions which may arise.

A meeting of independent oil companies is to be held at Minneapolis about October 15 and Mr. Spillman does not desire to select a date for his conference which will conflict with the meeting of oil men.

FREDERICTON, N. B.—(By Mail.)—The erection of a new 70-foot steel look-out tower for forest fire protection purposes has been completed on an elevation five miles south of St. Quentin, in the county of Restigouche.

HARD COAL PRICES JUMP

SIXTY TO 90-CENT INCREASE AT THE MINES.

Due to 10 Per Cent Wage Increase to Workmen—May Not Be Passed on Entirely to Consumers.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Sept. 21.—An anticipated increase in the price of domestic anthracite coal at the mines, because of the 10 per cent increase in wages under the new contract, went into effect today.

The new price lists of several large producing companies show increases ranging from 60 to 90 cents per ton at the mines.

The Suquehanna Collieries company increased the price of egg, stove and chestnut 60 cents per ton while the Lehigh Coal and Navigation company increased prices 90 cents per ton on those sizes. The Delaware and Hudson company's list showed an average increase of 70 cents per ton.

Some company officials expressed the opinion that retailers would not place the entire increase on the consumers.

WILHELM REJECTS INTERVIEWS

Ex-Kaiser Afraid to Talk for Fear of Being Quoted.

DOORN.—(By Mail.)—The ex-kaiser holds the record for short interviews.

Wilhelm has sworn he will not talk any more to newspaper men for the rest of his life. He even refused to see the Countess Platen, who, after a trip to the Ruhr, had come to Doorn and wanted to report to the kaiser on the conditions of the population under the French occupation.

Altho the countess was highly recommended to him, the kaiser declined to receive her, because he was afraid that something he might say would later appear in the papers.

Recently, however, the ex-kaiser was compelled to speak by a woman correspondent of a British paper.

While Wilhelm was walking along the main street of Doorn, in company of a German friend, she addressed him in the street:

"Are you the kaiser?"

"Yes," was the answer.

"Would your majesty give me his ideas on the present political situation?"

"No," and therewith Wilhelm turned on his heels, resuming the convercation withh is friend.

Every day in every way, ex-Kaiser Wilhelm is getting to look more and more like the late Edward VII. of England.

Edward VII. and his mother, Queen Victoria—the kaiser's grandmother—both had hanging cheeks and sagging puffs under the eyes. These British family features are becoming very pronounced on the kaiser's face as he grows older.

The likeness to Edward is particularly striking since Wilhelm has trimmed his beard the same way his uncle did. These facial resemblances are developing, despite the fact that there hardly was a man on earth whom the kaiser hated more bitterly than he did Edward.

HER HEAD —OR— HER HEART

Will She Marry the Man She Loves or the One Who Offers Life's Comforts in Abundance?

BY FAY STEVENSON.

A Midnight Decision.

Anne ran up the boarding house stairs fully determined to pack her trunk and return to Binghamton. She bade Edwin Taylor good-night hastily, with the thought that she would never see him again, and never cared to. After the way he had ignored her at the dance and left her so many times to dance with a silly, bobbed-haired flapper, she was through with him. There was nothing for her but Dr. Carr now.

Then she opened the door with her latch key and bumped into that very gentleman.

"Anne!" he cried, and kissed her three times heartily.

"Oh, Vincent, what has happened to bring you here?"

"Just this—I wanted to see you, to hold you in my arms, to kiss you!"

"But your practice?"

"The dickens with my practice. Anne, you've got to marry me tomorrow and come back to Binghamton. Life isn't worth two peanuts without you. I don't care if every old woman and baby in town dies while I'm away, I'm not going back until I take Mrs. Vincent Carr with me."

"I'm afraid you'll be away quite a time," she replied in a voice which scarcely sounded like her own. Just a few minutes before she had been racing up the steps to pack her trunk and return to Binghamton to marry him; but now, when he stood waiting for her, she couldn't think of becoming his wife.

"You silly, silly girl," he said, sitting down in the hall and looking at her with his head on one side, much the way he did with ailing patients before he took out his fountain pen and wrote down a prescription for them. "This is a miserable place for you to stay. It's nothing but a cheap rooming house. As I waited here for you I saw tired old maids going to their rooms; uncouth, homeless men creeping up to their bunks and I thot 'Good Lord, this is where the girl I love lives when she could be the mistress of a big house in one of the pdettiest towns in the United States.'"

"But I like it," replied Anne. "It's exciting, different. I am employed in one of the finest art stores on Fifth Avenue and every day I meet the best people in this city. I'm only nineteen and I have got a lot to see and learn."

"Who was that man who brought you to the door?" asked the doctor.

"Oh, that's one of the chaps in the store."

"What's his name?"

"Must I tell you, Vincent?"

"I didn't care about his looks. I should put him down as a typical city clerk who plays the Beau Brummel role and runs about with dozens of girls. You're probably only one of his girls, Anne. Does that appeal to you?"

It was strange that Dr. Carr should have touched her sensitive spot. She was angry at Erwin Taylor because he had danced with so many other girls. She broke down and wept.

"There, there, you're tired," replied Dr. Carr. "You run upstairs and I'll slip back to my hotel. We'll have a big breakfast tomorrow morning together."

TOM TAGGART IS IMPROVED

Former Indiana Democratic Leader Suffered From Sudden Attack in the Night.

HYANNISPORT, Mass., Sept. 21.—The condition of Thomas Taggart, former senator from Indiana, who was taken suddenly ill at his summer home here, was described today by Mrs. Taggart as "much better."

Taggart was to be taken to the Massachusetts General hospital at Boston later in the day.

The former leader in democratic politics in Indiana was in apparent good health yesterday afternoon. Late last night, however, he suffered hemorrhages. Two physicians attended him thruout the night.

Brussels Government Consulting With Britain and France Before Making a Formal Reply.

BRUSSELS, Sept. 21.—It was officially confirmed today that Chancellor Stresemann of Germany has made concrete proposals for evacuation of the Ruhr to the Belgian minister, Count De La Fille, at Berlin.

(This information was carried exclusively by the United States and in the Journal on Wednesday, September 19, twenty-four hours before it was semi-officially confirmed by the German government and made available for other press associations.)

It is understood that Belgium is determined to adhere to her present policy whereby she will make no agreement with Germany as long as passive resistance continues.

Meanwhile, the Belgian government is consulting with Britain and France before replying to Stresemann.

GERMANS LIKE DECORATIONS.

BERLIN.—(By Mail.)—Iron crosses and similar decorative hardware in Germany cost a lot more than they did in the days of Wilhelm. The mania for wearing a lot of trick medals, buttonhole ribbons and other symbols of the elect is not especially encouraged by the republican government. In fact the organizations are not recognized under present law—but they flourish just the same.

Main street is tired of jazz and people are beginning to think again, according to Lorado Taft sculptor, speaking before the International chautauqua and lyceum association convention.

DR. CALDWELL'S
SYRUP PEPSIN
Keeps him in good health

Clogged-Up? Here's Quick Aid

NEVER mind what you are using now for constipation. For all you know there is a better remedy! The next time you are clogged up try Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, a laxative successfully used for 30 years, the largest selling liquid laxative in the world. Mrs. John A. Goins of Butlerville, Ind., constipated all her life, her stomach injured from years of pill taking, is now functioning daily since taking Syrup Pepsin; and Mr. David O'Connor of Canton, Ohio, suffering steadily for three years, got relief after a few doses. The list of successful users of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is naturally large as over 10 million bottles are sold annually.

Formula on Every Package

Get yourself a bottle at a drug store, the cost being less than a cent a dose. Take a spoonful at bedtime for a few nights and we guarantee that the most chronic constipation will be relieved, or refund your money. A few doses in succession soon train the stomach muscles to act for themselves. Many, however, take it once a week and in that way keep the bowels regularly open. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, unlike harsh physics such as calomel, "candy cathartics," salt waters and powders, is a simple vegetable laxative composed of Egyptian senna and pepsin with tasty aromatics which are entirely harmless.

This Remedy Guaranteed

It has been accurately proven that a constipated person is only 75 per cent efficient. It slows you up; makes you dull and lazy. Take Syrup Pepsin the first day you do not have complete bowel movement. Take it, guaranteed, for constipation, torpid liver, dyspepsia, biliousness, sour stomach, headache, lack of appetite. A spoonful at the first sneeze or sniffle will kill a cold overnight. Half the ailments of winter start with constipation followed by a cold.

BE DONATION TO OIL MEN

THAT IS IF COURT GIVES THEM DISPUTED FEES.

Attorney General Tells Supreme Court It Was Wrong Before and Should Fearlessly Acknowledge It Now.

The state of Nebraska lays claim, in supreme court to the $61,923 of accumulated oil inspection fees that are in the hands of the clerk of the district court of Douglas county, paid in by the oil companies while recent litigation was in progress. In that litigation the companies won out on their claim that the charge of 6 cents a barrel for fifty barrel inspection lots was invalid because the inspection did not cost that much and that the state could not make it a revenue producing proposition.

When the case went back to Douglas county the state laid claim to these accumulated fees on the ground that as the oil companies had added the inspection fees they paid to the cost of doing business, the money had really been paid by the consumers and that the oil companies have no right to them. It also filed a motion, after that was overruled, to have the court find and deduct what the inspection cost and order that paid into the treasury. This was also overruled, and the state now appeals.

In the brief filed by Attorney General Spillman, W. C. Dorsey and Assistant Attorney General Ayres it is insisted that it is preposterous to maintain that if the oil companies merely acted as collectors of fees from consumers and sustained no loss or injury to themselves they can claim the fees because their constitutional rights had been violated.

It is further insisted that the court's opinion on the first appeal was founded on a wrong assumption of what was was actually decided in the old Standard Oil fee case, which resulted in a cut in fees from 10 cents to 6 cents a barrel; that as a matter of fact the excess is not a property tax and, being in addition to other property taxes, violates the rule of taxation uniformity, but is an excise tax. The attorneys insist that the court should fearlessly acknowledge it was wrong, and give the state what it is entitled to, not a part but all of the fees.

To award the $62,000 to the oil dealers would be a pure donation to them at the expense of the customers who paid it and to the state treasury where it belongs, the state's attorneys say.

MAY CHARGE CONSPIRACY

Indictments Probably in Charges of Mrs. Stokes Against Millionaire Husband.

CHICAGO, Sept. 21.—Indictments for conspiracy are probable in the charges made by Mrs. Helen Elwood Stokes that her millionaire husband, W. E. D. Stokes, had sought to bribe a score of persons to testify that she had been an inmate of the notorious Everleigh club of Chicago. State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe, who is investigating the case said today that he would not hesitate to ask the grand jury for indictments if the evidence justified it.

Several of the twenty-two persons, named by Mrs. Stokes as having been approached by her husband, were questioned. A former housekeeper, negro servants of the club, and a physician, under examination by Assistant State's Attorney Wharton charged that a man giving the name of Stokes had offered them money to testify that Mrs. Stokes had been an inmate of the resort.

The man brought many photographs of Mrs. Stokes and offered dates and other data, the witnesses charged. Plans to ruin her name by showing she had lived in the resort were concocted some time during the famous divorce trials in New York, Mrs. Stokes said.

NEW HOLIDAY IN RUSSIA.

MOSCOW—(By Mail)—Russia has a new holiday. It is July 6, the day marking the new union of "socialistic soviet republics." There have been many complaints that since Russia abolished the state church that there were not enough national holidays and a person, even in Russia, should get a day off once in a while. So it was decreed.

Good Night Stories

By Blanche Silver

Illustrated by Neya Harrison

THE WAY BILLY HARE WAS CURED OF GREEDINESS.

THERE were two things Billy Hare did love to do—to eat and to boast. He never was quite so happy as when he was surrounded by a crowd of his friends, telling them wonderful tales of his experience. There was no one in the meadow, to his thinking, who was quite as clever as he, and he lost no chance to boast about his cleverness.

"Why, there isn't an animal in the woods that can beat me at running. I don't care who he is," Billy Hare boasted to a crowd of his friends. "See these hind legs of mine. Babe Squirrel, if you had them you'd make some jumper. Goodness! I'm glad I'm not a squirrel. You can't run at all."

"I wouldn't say that," laughed Babe Squirrel, good-naturedly. "I'll admit I've never run a race with you, but I guess it's because I'm not built the same way. Yet one never knows what he can do until he is put to the test."

"Hum," grumbled Billy Hare. "I'll race you any time you say, any distance. Just arrange it in time so the meadow folk will get in on the fun, for I'll give you the chase of your life."

"That's a go," cried several of their friends. "Let's have some sport. Come on, Babe Squirrel, please say you'll run."

There was nothing else to do, so

Poor Billy Hare!

Babe Squirrel agreed to run a race with Billy Hare.

"And the loser will have to cut all the hair off his tail," cried Billy Hare. At first, this made Babe Squirrel wish he hadn't agreed to run. Then an idea flashed into his funny little head.

"I'll agree to even that," he laughed, stroking his lovely, bushy tail with his paw. "And to prove that I'm not afraid, I'll give a big feast to all the meadow folk the afternoon before the race. How does that suit you all?"

Everyone thought that would be fine, and the next day was set for the race.

Such hustling and bustling as took place while Babe Squirrel got ready for his party, you never did see. He gathered everything good to eat that he could think of, and he waited on his guests, while Billy Hare and his friends ate.

When it came time for the race, they all gathered at the old oak tree. Billy Hare had eaten so much at the party that he could hardly breathe. He was fairly panting.

At the sound of the gong, off they started. When they reached the willow tree overhanging the brook, Babe Squirrel was the first to leap into the water.

Then you should have heard the shouting and laughter. Babe Squirrel's friends were glad for his sake, yet everyone—even Babe Squirrel himself—felt sorry for Billy Hare, because he seemed so dejected.

"I'll let you off on the hair-cutting business," laughed Babe Squirrel.

"Thanks," said Billy Hare. "I'll never boast again, boys. My mother often told me that overeating wasn't good for anyone—now I know she was right. Babe Squirrel, you're the wisest of the wise. Thanks for the lesson." And wiggling his ears, Billy Hare darted off into the woods.

Babe Squirrel was so glad he had won the race and could keep the lovely, fluffy hair on his tail, that he danced a jig, which made everyone laugh.

THE VERY LATEST "UNDIES"

Dainty New Models Follow the Changes in Gown Silhouettes

By ANNETTE BRADSHAW

CHANGING silhouettes are by no means confined to outer garments. For as frocks change in outline, up-to-date "undies" must change to be in accord.

In the past few months of frills and circular insets and bouffant skirts, underthings have followed the lead of the garments to be worn over them. We have had a series of charming combinations and petticoats which introduce frills and puffs and circular insets. And the fluffier the underthings the more charming they are.

Note the white crepe-de-Chine shirt and step-ins at the left. Lace frills lend a charming note of frivolity and the jabot frill follows the line of frills on the blouse.

The underslip is designed for wear under the bouffant evening frock. White satin gains a note of variety by means of shirred puffs of white chiffon. Other petticoats show amusing circular insets at the side.

Designed especially for wear under the Fall frock are interesting little combinations made of figured silk or crepe de Chine. A model of this type scatters tiny green and red hearts over an ivory-colored back ground.

Lace Frills and Shirred Puffs Are Used for Decorations.

YOUR HEALTH

How You Can Check Up on Your Child's Strength

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.,
United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

DR. COPELAND

WE all believe in vacations, but sometimes there are disagreeable after-effects.

During vacation-time parents are apt to allow the children many unusual privileges, particularly in the matter of diet and sleep. This is all right so long as the health of the child does not suffer. Eating is the joy of youth. In the Summer time the children overeat. They have too many meals, too much food at each meal and, in many instances, the wrong kind of food.

The long school vacation should be the building-up period for growing children. It is a time which should be used to improve health by exercise in the fresh air and sunshine, with plenty of undisturbed sleep and, of course, good food.

Normal children of school age grow rapidly. Provision must be made to store up energy in the Summer-time to last through the many hard months of school work. This helps the little bodies to grow.

But, perhaps, the vacation has not afforded all these desirable things. Too many children run wild during this period and come back to school worse off than in the beginning of the holidays. The reserve of strength and stronger body may not have been acquired. This is the time of year, then, to give consideration to a few essentials to child health.

One of the most important rules of good health is quiet, restful sleep. Wherever possible children should sleep in separate beds. Ten to twelve hours is not too much.

The meals should be served at regular hours. The food should be of good quality, plain, wholesome and well-cooked.

For breakfast, some fresh fruit, a cereal and milk, an egg and toast or muffins are sufficient.

As a rule it is best for children to have the heavy meal in the middle of the day. Jellied soups, fresh vegetables, potatoes, meat or fish and a simple dessert, as custard, junket or pudding, make an ideal dinner.

Supper should consist of a cereal and milk, bread and butter, fruit or a piece of plain cake. Do not forget that bread and milk make one of the best supper dishes.

It is desirable not to give children food between meals, but if they do complain of hunger, a glass of milk or a piece of bread and butter will be sufficient.

This is the time of year when extra care is needed unless the vacation has been a supervised and sensible one. Grown folks may accept this advice for themselves, as well as apply it to the children.

Mrs. A. M. Q.—Should a child, 4 years of age, eat meat at least once during the day?

A.—Yes, during the winter a child 4 years of age should have meat once a day, but it is not so necessary in the warm weather.

B. S. Q.—Will you please tell me whether——is good for a bad breath?

A.—Yes, this preparation is helpful in this condition, but you should try to correct the trouble by changing your diet and correcting the constipation, as your bad breath probably is due to poor intestinal elimination.

W. W. Q.—I am a boy fifteen years old and only 5 feet 1 inch tall. What can I do to increase my height?

A.—The only thing you can do is to eat plenty of good food and take plenty of exercise. Join a gymnasium, if possible, and exercise regularly.

A READER. Q.—I have been in the habit of washing my hair every two weeks, but noticed that you advised washing the hair every week. Since doing this my hair looks dry and does not curl, while otherwise it did. What would you advise me to do?

A.—Apparently your hair is inclined to be dry and therefore does not need to be washed so frequently. Wash your hair every two weeks if you find that it keeps in better condition, but brush it very thoroughly every night before retiring. When shampooing the hair use a good castile soap.

What One Swimming Exercise Will Do to Build Up Beauty

By LUCREZIA BORI
The Famous Spanish Prima Donna

SWIMMING is one of the best of beauty builders. Everyone knows that its results are excellent, yet it is by no means everyone who knows how to swim.

It may be that you spend your vacation at some place near the water, or that you live where you can avail yourself of the advantages that water affords. But do you know how to swim?

If you have access to a body of water or to a pleasant swimming pool, of course playing about in the water will afford pleasure and exercise, but not nearly as much of either as if you knew how to swim.

Many women who are really interested in swimming keep up the good training all through the Winter months. They either practice swimming exercises at home, or they join a club where they can swim.

If you have never learned to swim do not be discouraged. It's never too late to learn. You will enjoy your next Summer's vacation infinitely more if you learn how to swim this Winter and can go somewhere and put your new-found knowledge to the test.

I'm going to give you a simple land-swimming exercise that will be of untold benefit to you during the Fall and Winter if you keep it up regularly, and that will help you immeasurably when you go into the water next Summer with the determination really to swim instead of merely playing about.

The beauty benefits of this exercise are many. It helps build firm hard flesh from fatty tissues, hence it is most beneficial to the woman who wants to reduce. It develops the lungs and helps fill out unattractive hollows in the neck and about the top of the collar-bones. Besides this, it sends the blood coursing into your cheeks and gives you the sparkle that spells beauty.

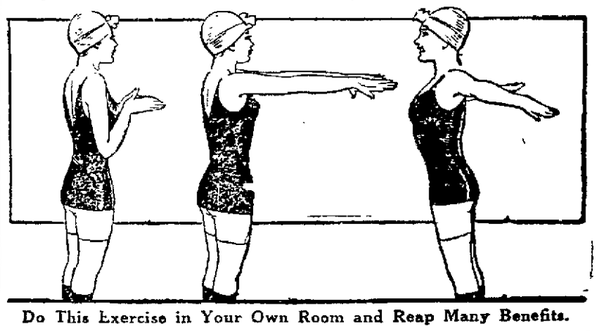

Before or after your exercise, there's nothing more bracing to tired spirits than a bath in which you have sprinkled some ocean salt. You can buy bottles of ocean salt at your drug store, and after a leisurely bath in water prepared in this way, you'll be agreeably surprised to find what an excellent tonic it is.

Now comes the swimming exercise. This you can take standing before your window, where you get the full benefit of all possible fresh air.

The best swimming exercise to take on dry land is the old reliable breast stroke. It goes like this:

Stand erect, with your shoulders back and head well up.

Begin by bending your elbows and placing your finger-tips together, pointed outward, at the center of your chest.

Do This Exercise in Your Own Room and Reap Many Benefits.

Now shoot your arms straight out in front of you, finger-tips still together, putting as much force as possible into the movement.

Turn your hands quickly, so that the backs are together, and describe half circles, the palms of your hands leading back.

This takes your arms straight out at your sides, and from this position you draw them again into first position, with finger-tips pointed in front of your chest. The movement where your arms sweep back pushes the water from you, as it were, and helps you make progress. You should do this with force.

Repeat at least six times, breathing deeply and regularly.

WINIFRED BLACK WRITES ABOUT The Pendulum of Fashion

Copyright, 1923, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

Winifred Black

OH, misery!—the figure is going to change again!

Who is the fiend in human form who sits up nights over there in Paris tying nice, straight, supple, clear-eyed, rosy American girls into knots and making them look like pale consumptives, just out of the hospital for one last look at the gay world before they lie down in their coffins?

Pale cheeks are the fashion, paler, we are told, than ever. And to be really smart, they say, you have to have three dents in your spine—a dent that makes you thrust your head forward like a turtle and your shoulders down as if you were too discouraged to breathe, and—well, what's the use, look at the next fashion magazine and you'll get the idea.

They Lured Us On

No hips, no bust, no shoulders—just knees and ankles and shoulder-blades and a yearning expression and a white, white face. Oh, me, if I were a young man I'd go out into the country and find me a red-headed, freckle-faced girl with cheeks like apples and a figure that really looked something like a figure—just for a change!

And they lured us on to such high hopes, those fashion people.

We heard about crinolines and sweeping draperies, and little bonnets with strings and shawls, and we began to imagine that women were going to look like women again, but no, indeed—not so you could notice it.

There's nothing womanly or even feminine about the new mode—scant skirts, cigarette cases—oh, well, what's the use?

It wouldn't fret me so much, only what I hate is to see the men's magazine and look at the weird creature in something that looks as if it was fitted over a corset—there's no trouble about the hips in the men's modes. And yesterday I met a young chap just going back to college and he was wearing violet perfume. You could tell it across the room—and he belongs to the two best clubs in his university and is one of the most popular men in his class.

His sister is a very gentlemanly person in boy's shoes and a boy's sweater. They have lovely times together, the two of them, but somehow it makes me dizzy to look at them. I always wonder if there isn't some mistake somewhere, somehow.

It's a "Scream!"

And there is the other brother and sister, I know. One of them is going to be a lawyer and the other is going to be a dress designer. And it's Sister who is to be the lawyer and Brother who's planning to become the dress designer. You ought to hear them talk about it. It really is, as Brother says, a "scream!"

But somehow I can't seem to care for the sound of the scream, can you?

Oh, well, if we wait long enough, we'll have the swing of the pendulum and then the girls will all be wearing hoops and dancing the minuet. And the boys—what will the boys be doing?

Why, marrying the girls, of course! They always do that, no matter what kind the girl of the period happens to be.

She always seems to suit the boy of the period, anyhow, and really——

I suppose that is about all that actually matters, when you come right down to it, don't you?

THE HOME KITCHEN

By JEANNETTE YOUNG NORTON
The Authority on Home Cooking

Solving the Problem of the Movable Sunday Feast.

SUNDAY, unfortunately, is not always a day of rest for the busy housewife, for while she may have provided amply for the regular family meals, it is the "extras" that mix up her schedule.

With a later and heartier breakfast than usual, she counts on a sort of informal "hand-out" luncheon of cake, fruit and a sandwich to tide over until the hearty dinner. Or if the dinner is served at noon, then an informal supper is provided, consisting, for instance, of a simple salad, ice tea, cake and fruit. However, the family may be seized with a desire to run off on a motor ride, or some other emergency may bring forth the question, "Mother can't we have dinner at night instead of noon" or "at noon instead of night?"

One mother gave her ultimatum recently. Now her dinner is a movable feast because it is cold. There may be a large chicken boiled, a half ham or tongue boiled or a piece of meat roasted on Saturday to be served cold on Sunday. A dessert is also made and moulded, salad materials are obtained and plenty of bread, butter and plain cake are provided the day before. The result of this plan is peace and satisfaction all around. Potatoes boiled on Saturday will cream or make a salad, peas canned are a matter of a few minutes, and corn cooks very quickly. So in one family at least worry over the Sunday dinner is sidetracked.

Meat cooked to be eaten cold requires a little different cooking from that required when it is eaten warm. The following recipes give hints needed for such cookery: A vegetable salad, like the one suggested, can be made to take the place of hot vegetables.

Boiled Smoked Tongue.

Select a short, thick tongue and soak it over night. Change the water at least once. Put the tongue on to boil in the morning. Boil it ten minutes, then add fresh boiling water and put in a few celery tops, a sliced onion, a red pepper, half a bay leaf and a few mint leaves. Boil this mixture gently but steadily until it is done, then partly cool it in the water, lift, skin and trim. With long steel skewers, shape it so that it will be partly curled when it cools and sets. When it is ready to serve, remove the skewers.

Boiled Chicken.

Select a young chicken weighing about four pounds, have the sinews drawn from the legs, remove the pin-feathers, singe and clean it, cut out the neck, wash it, put the giblets inside, then truss it firmly. Make a French breast by tucking in the skin and pinning or sewing it in shape. Place the chicken in the pot with an onion stuck with four cloves, a bunch of celery tops, half a pepper, half a bay leaf, a saltspoonful of curry powder, half a cupful of vinegar or the juice of a lemon, salt and pepper. From the time the water reaches the boiling-point, cook slowly, covered, from an hour to an hour and a half. Try it with a thin-tined fork.

When it is done, let the chicken stand in the water for twenty minutes, then lift, drain and cool it, remove the skewers and strings and place it in the cool chamber of the ice-box, covering it first with a clean linen cloth which will keep it from drying out. The broth may be boiled down, then strained and cooled. Remove all greases. It can then be used as broth be jellied, or be used in creaming the chicken. After all slicing is done, the necklings of the chicken may be creamed.

Ham for Slicing.

Wash the round end of a heavy ham and put it on in cold water. Let it come to the boiling-point and boil ten minutes, then throw off the water adding boiling water to cover it. Add an onion stuck with cloves, celery tops, half a bay leaf, half a cupful of vinegar, half a half of garlic pepper and a tablespoonful of sugar. Let the ham boil slowly until it is done, and cool it a little in the water. Lift and skin the ham, stick with cloves, cover it thickly with brown sugar and a few crumbs, set it in the oven and baste it now with cider or grape juice. Bake the ham twenty minutes, then let it cool.

Tomorrow's HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 22.

A rather quiet, routine state of affairs is read from this day's stellar operations. It is urged that unusual attention be paid to the handling of all writings, letters and documents and that contracts be entered into with caution. Also, give the physical condition more than custom any consideration lest it prove a disturbing factor in the favorable movement of affairs.

Those whose birthday it is may expect a rather quiet routine year but they should be particular in the signing of papers, letters and writings and make contracts cautiously. They should give particular attention to the health and that of the family. A child born on this day should be treated to be careful in signing writings and documents and to take care of its health.

Three-Minute Journeys

By Temple Manning

WHERE A MOTHER CHANGES HER NAME WITH EACH CHILD.

WHEN a girl of one of the tribes of Rhodesia, South Africa, is just a little thing, plans are made to marry her off to the first eligible young man who presents himself, for early marriage is considered absolutely necessary because of an interesting religious belief.

Every native believes that when he dies his spirit will live only as long as his children, grand-children and their descendants have food to his grave. Therefore, large families are considered imperative because one must have so many descendants that it will be impossible for his spirit to starve and die.

"The Mother of John."

From the hour a child is able to understand anything about religion, it is taught the necessity of bearing food to the graves of the departed who still are remembered with affection. It is also taught that early marriage is necessary and that many children are to be desired even above riches or other honors.

When a Rhodesian girl is thin she is stuffed with food until she grows fat, for a thin girl has little chance of marriage. The fatter the girl the more suitors she has for her hand.

As soon as she is married a Rhodesian woman forgets about her appearance. She even shaves her head but whether this is a labor-saving idea is not known. It might well be, however, for besides raising children the Rhodesian women work shoulder to shoulder with their husbands at the work of raising food and keeping the little farms in order.

When a child is born the news is not left merely to gossip to carry it about the neighborhood. The event is proclaimed to everyone who will listen, and all the Rhodesians listen because they wish the child was theirs.

Furthermore, the fact is never permitted to be forgotten. The way this is accomplished is by changing the name of the mother.

She is not known simply as Mrs So and So. She is spoken of as "The Mother of John."

When a new baby comes the mother's name is again changed. Thus no one is permitted to forget that into the Rhodesian family has come a new person to perpetuate the spirits of the father and the father in the years to come.

Why Madge was Troubled as She Read of "Benjamin."

I DO not know how long I sat staring at the inscription in the novel I had picked up. Medusa's head could have had no more paralyzing effect upon me for a little while than did the innocent-looking words, "To 'Benjamin' with the author's gratitude," decorating the fly-leaf of the presentation copy which Dicky had left upon the table.

The falling of a stick in the grate roused me to a realization that my sorry fire was out. With the instinctive need of work for my hands—something which always comes to me in any mental crisis—I rebuilt it. Then, throwing all depression aside, I seized the book again, and began to read it, rapidly, feverishly, watching upon every page for indications that Dicky had sat consciously, or unconsciously, for the author's word-picture of his hero, "Benjamin."

I had not long to wait. From the hero's first entrance and the author's description of him, I suspected what further delving into the text only confirmed. "Benjamin" was Dicky to the life as far as outward seeming went. I had not dreamed that anyone beside myself knew all his mannerisms and foibles so well.

But the soul of the man whom the novelist had described with a frankness as brutal as his handling was brilliant—surely that did not belong to my husband.

Madge Is Frightened.

If I were to believe that the novelist had gauged Dicky's spiritual and moral qualities with the same uncanny accuracy which marked his portrayal of my Peter Pan's physical and mental characteristics—then indeed my world had crashed to ruin about me.

For "Benjamin," as portrayed by the author, was as unmoral and as devoid of the ordinary standards of life as he was fascinating. Portrayed in the book were two wives and a number of other women who had loved the hero. To each he had been intensely devoted for a short time, and over one description of Benjamin's wooing, I shivered as with a chill, it brought back to my mind so vividly the tempestuous manner in which Dicky had swept me from my sedately ordered life and into marriage with him.

It was long past midnight when I finished the book—I had made no attempt to read it carefully, and had paid no attention to the really fine points of the author's style of writing and his treatment of his characters—and when I closed it, I also closed my eyes in weariness and bewilderment which held more than a touch of stark fright.

A Wise Determination.

For the book had ended in fantastic tragedy, faintly reminiscent of Sentimental Tommy and his collar button. But it had rounded out the portrayal of Benjamin as a man attracting the love of all women, but incapable himself of any lasting passion.

Was this, then, the real personality of the man I had married, and who, despite the many vicissitudes of our emotional life, I had believed to be my royal lover still?

Useless to tell myself that the book was only fiction, and that the novelist had drawn upon his imagination for everything but the outward characteristics he had so skilfully described. The story had so obsessed me that I was incapable of anything save jealous, unreasoning fear and anger. There was but one drop of comfort in the whole bitter cup. Nowhere in the book had the author described a woman even remotely resembling me.

Only one glimmer of common sense penetrated my swirling brain storm. I must not let Dicky guess that I had read the book or had seen the inscription.

I rose from my chair, and walking to the table from which I had picked up the book, I scrutinized it carefully. As I had thought, I could see upon the cloth table cover the faint outline of the book, and I carefully replaced it in the same spot and over it laid a newspaper.

Then, letting down my davenport bed, I undressed, and finding myself shaking with cold, although the room was ordinarily warm, I put on my bathrobe, and crept into bed, hoping that I would be able to secure the sleep which offered my only hope of oblivion from the torturing thoughts possessing me.

Advice to Girls

By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a young married woman. We are living with my husband's father and sister. They are very jealous of me. They think that they should come first. But I think a wife should. Am I right? They are trying to make my husband think as they do. I love my husband dearly and don't want to have any trouble with his folks on that account. Now what would you advise me to do? I would like to get work and let his sister run the house, but my husband objects. Should I anyway? I am not at all happy this way.

A CONSTANT READER.

A CONSTANT READER: You should do as your husband wishes my dear. Since you are living with his family, you should make yourself so agreeable that they will consider it a great pleasure to have you in their home.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a girl 20 years of age. I know a young man two years my senior who I love very much. I would like to gain his friendship. Could you tell me how to do this? Would it be proper for me to write to him and invite him to call on me?

He seems bashful when he sees me. I never saw him with any other girls. My parents would not object to my going with him.

Please advise me what to do.

BONNY BROWN EYES.

BONNY BROWN EYES: It would be entirely proper to write to the young man and invite him to call on you.

Annie Laurie will welcome letters of inquiry on subjects of feminine interest from young women readers of this paper and will reply to them in these columns. Letters to Miss Laurie should be addressed to her in care of this office.

WET BLANKET FOR COOLIDGE

MARYLAND DEMOCRATS TAKE STATE'S RIGHTS STAND.

Declare That Congress Should Turn Subject of Prohibition Back to Each State for Individual Decision.

By Lawrence Martin.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—The democrats of Maryland, in convention assembled, have taken the lead and sounded the keynote for those elewill insist in 1924 that Volstadism is a major issue upon which the democratic party should take a bold and open stand in its national platform.

They have thrown a heavy wet blanket upon the hopes of President Coolidge and some of his advisers that nation-wide cooperation for prohibition enforcement can be attained thru acceptance by all the states of full responsibility for local enforcement of the Volstead law.

They have made Governor Ritchie of Maryland the spokesman of the "moderate wets" who do not go so far as those of the Al Smith school in New York in declaring against state participation in prohibition enforcement, but who do demand full recognition of states' rights.

The Maryland democrats did all this by writing into their state platform a plank which says:

"The provisions of the Volstead act constitute a clear departure from this principle of government (state rights) and we believe appropriate steps should be taken by congress to turn the subject back to the states, so that each state, within consistional limitations, may have the opportunity of settling it in accordance with the wishes of its own people; and until that time we believe that the Volstead act should be amended to permit manufacture and sale of beer and light wines where permitted by local law."

This is an amplification of the position taken by the New York legislature in its repeal of the state enforcement act. By its statement that congress should act to turn the question back to the states, the Maryland platform seeks to make the question a direct and definite issue in the 1924 congressional elections.

TO ANNOUNCE MARINE PLANS

New Shipping Board Program Made Necessary by Daugherty's Ruling.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—Within a week the shipping board will announce its new program, made necessary by Attorney General Daugherty's ruling that the proposed Lasker-Farley plan of indirect government operation thru eighteen subsidiary corporations is illegal.

This statement was made on high authority today following a conference of shipping board members. No formal conferences will be held until E. P. Farley, the chairman, returns from New York on Monday. In the meantime, however, board members are preparing to put into effect whichever of two plans appears more feasible.

In any event, it was stated, the board will not attempt to sidestep responsibility by relaying action until congress meets.

F. J. Steidl of Wheaton, Minn., says he read it in the Commoner last spring. His letter in part:

CONSIDERATE OF BROGANS

MR. COWGILL FEARS CERTAIN FEET MAY CALLOUS.

Also Suspects That Colleagues of Council May Wear Out Cars as Well as Shoes in Walk Inspection.

Commissioner Cowgill expresses deep concern for the foot comfort of his colleagues of the council. Issues bulletin to effect that callouses bound to come if members tramp often and repeatedly over every little prospective sidewalk district. When shoes wear out suffering will come or else new shoes. Also fears that lives of several automobiles owned by several colleagues will be shortened if councilmen drive to and hold open-air meetings on site of every small sidewalk.

Mayor Zehrung offers as exhibit "A" new set of soles and heels.

"Had 'em put on thick purposely," he said.

During the past two weeks or so whenever a councilman has no place else to go, he goes to Sumner street. Often they go in bunches. They park their cars and walk up and down the walks, counting the trees and squinting at the lines. Park Boss Edinborough who has no shoe appropriation, was compelled to shake a leg up and down the stretch from Seventeenth to Twentieth.

"Tree controversy still raging," said Mr. Cowgill Friday.

The street department head then tossed a bit of fine sarcasm on those who yield to sentiment.

"Humph. It's lovely to be sentimental", he said, "when the troubles don't come your way. But what of the sentiment in the hearts of those who must walk in the mud because there are no walks? I'm responsible and by Heavens we're going to have walks. We cannot father a policy of leave it to the property owners. Ask an owner if he wants a nice, new sidewalk. Tell him he can pay for it. Nine times out of ten he'll say he doesn't need it. Fifteen people complained to me yesterday that they were forced to walk or crawl in the mud because there were no sidewalks. What state of mind is the workman in who must walk to work in the mud? If we adopt a leave-it-alone policy or continue such a policy, these men will continue to walk in the mud."

As to the Sumner street situation the commissioner said:

"Park Superintendent Edinborough says that the trees are practically worthless. Our engineers have decided that new walks must go in over much of the strip and that all must come to grade. It will be cheaper if the thing can be cleaned up as a whole and not by piece-meal. There is no reason why we shouldn't do it exactly the same as tho we were completing a paving district."

DEATH CLAIM IS SETTLED

World Herald Company Pays $2,650 to Heirs of Nightwatchman, Killed in Elevator.

State Compensation Commissioner L. B. Frye has approved a lump sum settlement in which the World Herald Building company of Omaha paid $2,650 to the heirs of an employe, Fred M. Hans, night watchman who was instantly killed by a freight elevator of the World Herald building, April 17. The heirs agreed to this and the case was dismissed. The question of whether Hans had dependent heirs or was negligent in starting the elevator which killed him had arisen. The divorced wife, Roberta M. Hans, is alleged to have resumed marital relations. She was given $1,525 of the lump sum settlement and is to pay the cost of burial over and above $150 allowed by law for that purpose. The funeral bill was $369. Lillian Caroline Budd, a child of the deceased watchman, was given $875. Grace L. Davis, another child was given $100.

In the compensation claim of H. C. Deats against George Ridgeway and John Snowden of Lincoln, Snowden was found not to be the owner of the house upon which the claimant was injured and the case dismissed as to him. An award of $15 a week, to run from October 5, 1922 and to end when permanent disability ascertained, was made. A deduction of $414 already paid is allowed.

C. C. Bickell was given an award of $12.60 a week for ninety weeks, against A. W. Hoyt of Lincoln, beginning September 12, 1923, the day the percentum of disability was ascertained.

The case of Mike Maughn against P. O. Schrepf and the university of Nebraska was dismissed because the claimant did not appear April 4 when the case was called for hearing.

PASSING OF THOMAS HEALY

Hero of Eastland Disaster Survived by Lincoln Relatives.

Thomas Healy of Manitowoc, Wis., brother of Mrs. Ella Hosford, 1010 Washington street, and an uncle of Miss Blanche Shaner, both of Lincoln, who recently passed away after a long illness, was known as the hero of the Eastland disaster of July 1915, and had received decorations for his bravery.

Mr. Healy was a veteran sailor and is credited with saving the lives of many people when the ship Eastland turned over in Chicago in 1915. The boat on which he was steward at the time was near the scene of the disaster and he turned it into a hospital ship and dove repeatdly into the water saving many lives.

He was one of the oldest employes of the Goodrich Transit line. His death was due to heart disease. He has been steward on various boats of the line for a long term of service. He began a sailor's life at fifteen years of age. He died at the age of sixty-seven.

BEER WAR NARROWS DOWN

Score of Suspects to Be Questioned in Connection With Chicago Killings.

CHICAGO, Sept. 21.—Investigation into Chicago's beer war, which has resulted in the killing of six gangsters here during the last few months, today simmered down to questioning of the score of suspects already under arrest.

Police predicted they would have the three latest killings solved within a few days as a result of evidence against certain notorious characters under arrest.

To eliminate further violence between rival beer syndicate gangs, State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe today announced he would ask the state supreme court to declare unconstitutional the law allowing carrying of deadly weapons.

The Unfit Ford.

Waterbury American: We have to go to the London Spectator for the best reasons why Ford is not fitted to be president. Editor Strachey answers a correspondent, who attempted to sum up Ford's qualities of fitness for the place, by saying that Mr. Ford lacks a knowledge of political affairs and of political history and the power of working with all types of men. He calls Ford a business autocrat who has been able to agree with few men and apparently has not seriously tried to co-operate with them. That seems to rule him out.

VIOLATORS WARNED BY JUDGE CHAPPELL

Tells Them That Owners of Autos Lacking Tail Lights Will Be Fined the Next Time.

The next time you're up here you'll be fined," Judge Chappell warned two score of auto light ordinance violators who packed into the police court room Friday morning. The night motorcycle police made sallies out into residential district again Thursday night and tagged all autos parked without tail lights. Chief of Police Johnstone says that owners of autos with over bright lights will be hailed into police court.

A similar compaign against cars lacking tail lights was put under way about a week ago when police played tag with about fifty cars. The owners were notified against the violations. The offenders were then dismissed with a warning. The police judge is of the opinion that nothing short of a fine will help the situation. It is all right, however, to park your car without a tail light in the congested area or in the business district where the streets are well lighted.

"A certain doctor in this city opposed the ordinance compelling tail lights," said the judge. "And one night while his car was parked at a curb and his wife and child were in it another doctor's car on an emergency call came rushing down the street and crashed into the parked machine. Since then that doctor has favored the ordinance."

Those the police allege parked their cars at the curb without tail lights include: H. C. Filley, E. C. Moore, T. E. Gillet, C. E. Brittain, Mrs. E. Gugeham, Reverend Embree, V. W. Coy, H. T. McGrew, Ardian Nowens, Harold Oassen, O. E. Linburg, M. Gettler, W. A. Losey, W. L. Frampton, C. J. Holton, J. A. Johnson, S. A. Draise; Virgil App, R. G. Fudor, D. Smith, and J. A. Boyer. Several out of town persons who are in the city attending a Methodist church conference were caught among the offenders and their autos tagged for lacking tail lights.

FIRE STOPS TRAINS ON SOUTHERN PACIFIC

Main Line Tied Up Following Burning of 1,000 Feet of Snow Sheds and Stations Near Spruce, Cal.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 21.—Fire which has been working havoc in California for six days struck in a new place and tied up traffic over the main line of the Southern Pacific to the east.

A box car on a siding at Spruce, near here, caught fire, the flames spreading until 1,000 feet of snow sheds, the station and several cars had been burned.

All trains east and west were tied up. It was expected the tracks could be cleared and traffic resumed tonight.

WRITES OF BERKELEY FIRE

Instructor Took Class to Park and When They Returned to Section of Town Had Burned.

A former University of Nebraska student who is now connected with the University of California writes of the devastation caused by the Berkeley fire. At 2 o'clock in the afternoon she had taken her class over to Golden Gate park. They noticed that the heat was like that from a furnace but did not realize what was happening. When they returned at 6:30 they were horrified to find the section of the town north of the campus burned to the ground. The streets were full of automobiles rushing hither and thither and the trolleys were all piled together. She found that Professor Gregg, under whom she works, and his family had lost everything excepting the clothes they had on. He had just returned from a European trip and had lost all his notes of the trip, all the Christmas presents they had bought, and in fact everything. Several of the professors, including the president, lost their homes. Dean Hunt's house was saved by two students, who sat on the roof thruout the fire and hosed it. The students, men and women, worked like mad. All the homeless are bearing up bravely, she said, and are very cheerful, just as were the sufferers in the graet San Francisco fire.

Idaho Prunes

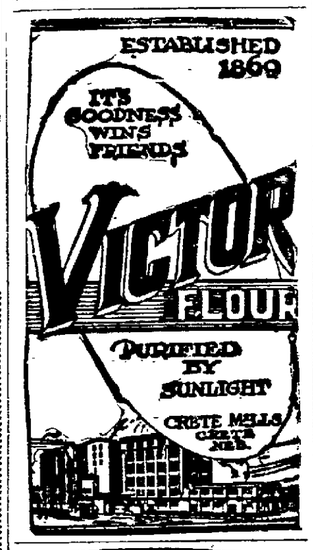

for Breakfast tomorrow

The sweet-tart flavor of the Big Blue Plum, known as the Idaho Prune, makes it an unequalled delicacy as a breakfast fruit.

Its pleasing sharpness is an appetizing stimulant. Its essential mineral salts make it an aid to digestion and a prop to health. Its high percentage of natural sugar gives it unusual food value.

There's as much difference in flavor and goodness between a fresh, ripe Idaho Prune and the old-fashioned dried boarding-house variety as there is between a fresh, juicy steak and a piece of dried beef.

Your Problems

BY MARY GORDON

Dear Mary Gordon: I am afraid my husband is going to do something we will all be sorry for one of these days. Not long ago I told my husband about a neighbor man who has been insulting me. He has pretended to be our friend for a long time, but husband never liked him. Now he comes to the house when my husband is gone and tries to kiss me.

Finally it got to the point where I couldn't stand it any longer and I told my husband. He got fearfully angry and said he would give the man a lesson. I am afraid he will shoot him or something like that, because my husband has a temper slow to rouse but slow to forgive too. However my husband and I always tell each other everything.

I am sorry for the man's wife and children. If anything would come to them on my account I could never forgive myself. What should I do?—Troubled.

A. I believe you could have rid yourself of the man without telling your husband, by refusing to allow him in the house when your husband was not at home. Also, you could have told your husband you did not like the man around.

You might appeal now to your husband's fear of notoriety. No one wants to be involved in a case which comes before the public in a derogatory light. Urge him to drop the man from his list of friends. The man will probably take the hint.

I never could see why wives insist on telling their husbands everything that happens of everything that they think. Men, in common with women, are more interested when they come upon something by chance. We all lose interest when we know our companions' thoughts before they are uttered.

Telling all one knows has caused much more harm than good in the world.

A home is wanted for a girl nine years old to go to school for the winter and help around the home, either in the country or town. Call phone Uni M 3522, or address 303 E. Fourteenth street, University Place, Neb.

Ruby and Pearl: Ask your mothers.

My Dear Mary Gordon: I have never bothered you before and will try and refrain hereafter, but the way some of those "would-be-goods" rave makes me boil over sometimes.

I think dancing is one of the most beautiful, fascinating, and beneficial amusements of today. It is the people who dance that have their good and bad qualities. It's not the amusement, its those who attend; and if these so-called reformers don't dance, how do they learn so much about it?

It's very much against the rules of society to repeat hearsay, and, "I heard so and so," in a court room would kick a witness off the stand. I suppose if men danced alone and women danced alone as in the old days, it would be alright. See what those old time dances led to. Say, women and reformers, its time to put the damper on golf. Women are taking it up strong and are out on the green with the men all the time. It will certainly lead to something terrible.

It is just as foolish to blame the dance for the downfall of young folks as it would be to say: "Oh aren't automobiles getting awful. Why, they drive themselves around, gather up a load of young folks and take them out in the country, and teach them the naughtiest things. Its simply shocking! Its the cars fault, not the young folks that use them. um-m-m-they must be abolished."

I am an orphan girl twenty years old. Have had my own way to make for five years. I've been in all kinds of places and wouldn't take a million dollars for my experience.

A little worthless mountain stream goes roaring down the mountain, doing no good but annoying everyone with its noise, while our Mississippi river just rumbles along doing all kinds of work and making little noise compared to the mountain stream. That's the way with so many of our people. Always criticising, finding no good in anyone or anything, just making people's lives miserable. Don't you think so, Mary Gordon?

Don't criticise until you know and can prove what you say. Nobody does things they don't like to do. So only those who care for certain things know what they are like.—Happy-go-Lucky.

A. The so-called reformers often do accomplish little and stir up only bitterness. But they are sincere, in most cases, I think. They truly believe that they can better the world by their methods.

You have been strong and so were benefitted by your experiences. Remember that many girls would have gone under had they been in similar situations.

Remember, too that what we like to do is not always best for us.

Dear Mary Gordon: I'm a fourteen-year-old sophomore in high school. I'm not good looking and I'm certainly too fat, but I have been called cute.

My hair is dark brown and wavy. I comb it loosely about my face and have curls in back. It is so thick, however, that I can't get it combed right and my face is so fat that it is hard to ud a becoming way to comb it. Can you suggest a way?

I am bashful around boys and when I meet them I turn my head away so I don't have to speak to them. I'm afraid to speak because I think they'll be ashamed to speak to me.

There is one boy, a senior that I like real well. I have reason to believe that he liked me a little bit last year, but it has been six or eight months since I spoke to him. I don't know him very well but I've been introduced to him and I'm anxious to gain his friendship. I know it was foolish not to speak to him but what should I do about it?

Am I too young to go to the movies or to a party with a young man occasionally? I'm not allowed to go car riding without a chaperone.

I'm frequently taken for sixteen.

Am I too young to play bridge or to have a sleeveless party dress?

I go with the best group of girls in high school and when I don't speak to the boys they call me "snob." I think they do and I think they make fun of me.

I almost forgot to ask you if $40 per month is too much allowance.

Will face powder hurt my skin.—Beatrix.

A. Your hair sounds very attractive just as it is. Some simple, girlish style is best. You may be a bit too plump in your own estimation, but aren't you glad you're not painfully skinny?

Size and appearance have little to do with friends. Probably the boys can't understand why you don't speak to them, think it is bashfulness. Force yourself to speak to everyone you know. Smile and soon everyone will think: "What a pleasant girl—I wish I knew her better."

There is no way to gain the senior's attention except to be pleasant and friendly.

You are too young to go alone to the movies or parties with a young man, I think. Wait a couple of years. You may not realize it but with a chaperon is the very nicest way to go.

It's all right to play bridge, but I wouldn't wear a sleeveless party dress. Really, they are only for mature women.

Forty dollars a month sounds like too much allowance to me. Do you realize lots of girls have less than that amount to pay for board and room and a few clothes once in a while?

I never can see why any girl under twenty uses face powder. Their unvarnished skins are so much lovelier and the use of powder makes them look older and will, in time, I fear, harm their complexions.

Dear aMry Gordon: What shall I talk about? It's so hard to find an interesting topic of conversation when you meet a perfect stranger, or even a casual neighbor. Would you please give me some advice?—Not a Talker.

A. The daily newspaper is the old relibale, never-failing source of topics for the tongue-tied. You need go no further than the first page. For instance in last night's paper you read of Germany's efforts to slip back to her accustomed place in the world, with a Ruhr once more free of French troops.

"Did you read that Belgium will probably reject the secret German proposals for surrender of armed resistance in the Ruhr? Stresemann is a different sort of man from Cuno, isn't he? Or else he desires at any cost to save his nation from chaos." That might be the way you would open the conversation.

Or, "I wonder if people realize how critical a time Oklahoma is undergoing? To an outsider, it looks as if the editors might be right in declaring that two super-powers are struggling for supremacy."

"Did you notice the story of the former Omaha woman who arrived home from the earthquake? Wasn't that a graphic story? I wonder how we would feel if our sister or husband or child were to be torn away like that? Probably we would be too paralyzed to feel, for a long time."

"Did you see the picture of Ernest Grainger and the account of the funeral of the auto crash victim? Wasn't that the saddest thing that has happened here in years?"

All this and you have not even exhausted the possibilities of the Journal first page. No need to lack conversation for the first half hour, at least.

Wonder how the New York stores feel about the shortage of shoppers since the pressmen quit and the newspapers have had to practically suspend publication. How would you feel to have your daily paper taken away suddenly? This opens many interesting possibilities in discussing how much we moderns take for granted.

Dr Copeland and Ruth Cameron offer many opportunities for conversation. "Front Seat People," sounds interesting. We all know them, don't we? "Play my way or don't play at all."

Then the earthquake pictures. Devastation, fleeing people, the unexpectedness of the shock. All bring topics that people like to discuss.

And then, of course, Mary Gordon What are your reactions to "A Victim of a Woman?" Is he justified in the stand he has taken? Is it a common experience? Are men victimized by women as often as women by men?

"Men and Things," we all read Harry Dobbins' column, don't we? Lots of times he says something we have long felt, but never put into words.

And then there are sports and the comics—don't you like the Nebbs?—and "Can You Beat It?"

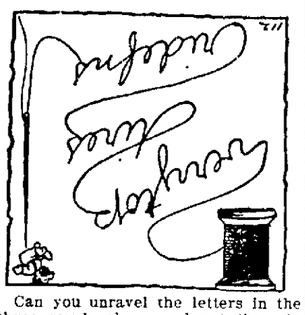

You need not call upon all these. One subject always suggests another. You will ramble into side paths and byways with every topic, till you find that only one or two newspaper "stories" will usually be needed to start the conversation ball. If it stops, start another of the first page liners.

And soon you'll be delighted with your conversational powers.

To Brighten Black Clothes.

Renovate a black dress by rubbing it well with the water in which you have scalded a handful of young ivy leaves. Scald with about one quart of water, and let them stand until cold. Then take the article to be treated, place it on a table and with a piece of black rag rub the liquid well on. Then hang out to dry.

TO PUSH CULTIVATION OF COTTON

BUENOS AIRES (By Mail) Cotton growing, which up to now had received very little attention from agriculturists in the Argentine seems to have received an impulse, especially in the northern provinces, where the climate and soil, according to experts, are perfectly adapted to the cultivation of this product. The federal government and several of the provincial governments have offered prizes in many cases big sums of money, to the farmer who produces the best quality cotton.

SLENDER CHICAGOAN MEETS 1922 TITLIST

Jesse Sweetser at Top of His Game and Stands Good Chance of Retaining Title—Ouimet Plays Max Marston.

FLOSSMOOR COUNTRY CLUB, CHICAGO, Sept 21.—Jesse Sweetser, New York's youthful national champion, came in today at the end of the first eighteen holes in the semi-final round of the national amateur golf tournament seven up on Robert A. Garuner, Chicago.

Gardner, only surviving hope of the west to win the title, showed signs of slipping on the way out and then ran badly amiss after the turn. He was topping his drives and putting carelessly.

Sweetser played masterful golf at every hole, refusing to allow Gardner's poor form to disturb his play. He putted with care as though he were neck and neck with the Chicagoan.

Francis Ouimet and Maxwell Marston, playing the other half of the semi-final round were all square at the end of the morning round eNither played better than fair goli.

BY EDWARD C. DERR.

FLOSSMOOR COUNTRY CLUB, CHICAGO. Sept. 21.—On the slender frame of Robert A. Gardner; hicago, rested the only hope of the west today to take the national amateur golf championship away from the east.

Gardner, a former title holder, was paired with Jess Sweetser, New York, present champion, in the semi-final round of the national amateur golf tournament here. Two easterners met in the other match. They were Francis Ouimet, Boston and Max Marston. Philadelphia.

Sweetser In Fine Form.

Sweetser, never a better golfer than now, faced the most severe test of the tournament today and it was generally conceded that if he was able to survive against Gardner, he would have little trouble in the finals against the winner of the Ouimet-Marston match.

A chill wind blew drizzling rain over the course as the players started this morning. Despite the intermittent showers which have continued since the meet started, the greens were in good condition, however, and today was expected to see super-golf by the giants of the amateur lists.

Sweetser defeated Jess Guilford, Boston 2 and 1, in the feature match of the third round on Thursday. The champion played splendid and consistent golf at every hole.

Ouimet's Experience Factors.

The experience of the veteran Ouimet carried him to victory over George Von Elm. Salt Lake City, in a bitterly contested match. Marston continued his great stride in eliminating Joe Wells, East Liverpool, Ohio. Gardner had little difficulty in winning from Dinsmore Shute, Wheeling, W. Va., 6 and 5.

In the play off for low medal score in the qualifying round, Bobby Jones, Atlanta, beat Chick Evans, 71 to 76.

WESLEYAN GRIDIRON WARRIORS AT WORK

Coach Glen Preston Putting Squad of Fifty Candidates Thru Stiff Workouts—Backfield Men Show Some Speed.

BY CHARLES MASSEY.

With a squad of fifty candidates reporting daily on the Coyote gridiron, Coach Glen Preston is beginning to feel optimistic about the success of the 1923 Wesleyan football team. There is sufficient competition for the backfield and line positions. So much in fact, that the eleven that will be picked to carry the Yellow and Brown colors into the opening clash, October 6, should be a winning aggregation.

Before the whistle blows for the first kick-off, however, the squad must do plenty of hard work. The players need to be taught the points that are most essential to the game. And for the reason that instruction is needed, Coach Preston has been drilling fundamentals since the opening of the season. The usual calisthenics, dummy butting, whirling, bucking, blocking, running the ball, and conditioning exercises have been repeatedly worked out.

Hold First Scrimmage.

Thursday night, for the first time since the start of the season, the squad was put thru a light scrimmage. Some of the players must go thru much more drilling before they will be able to hold a berth on the team. All of the players need to work hard before they will be ready for the start of the playing season. With two more weeks of practice, Coach Preston hopes to knock off the rough places and get the Wesleyan machine into good running order.

BENKLEMAN GRIDSTERS BEAT IMPERIAL 112 TO 0

BENKLEMAN, Neb., Sept. 20.—The Benkleman high school football team easily won from the Imperial eleven Wednesday, by a score of 112 to 0. Euane Heflin, former Wesleyan athlete, is coaching the local gridsters.

Micky Walker Goes Against Texas Boy

DAVENPORT, Ia., Sept. 21.—Iowa fans had their first glimpse of Mickey Walker, welterweight champion of the world, here last night when the New Jersey Irishman met Bobby Green of San Antonio, Tex., in what was scheduled to be a ten round bout.

After toying with his foe until he took a left and right that shook him to his heels in the fourth, Walker settled down to business and beat his foe into submission.

Green took a real drubbing gamely and stuck it out until Referee Slim Brennan stopped the bout in the eighth to save him from further punishment.

Ralph Alexander, Waterloo heavyweight, was credited with a technical k. o. over Jack McDonald of Chicago because of their bout last night. McDonald was leading until late in the second, when Alexander hit him on the nose and opened up a recently cut artery. The flow of blood could not be stopped and Referee Dietz stopped the bout.

Walter Moody, Sioux City, beat Young Dawson, Moline, in a four-round preliminary.

HARRY WILLS TRIES APPROVED METHODS

Words, Injunctions and "the etc.," Having Gotten Him Nowhere Dusky Battler Will Fight Way Way to Title Bout.

BY HENRY L. FARRELL.

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—After having tried all the wrong ways in the book, Harry Wills, the colored freight wrestler, is going about the modern and approved method of getting a crack at the world's heavyweight crown.

Words, challenges, injunctions and threats having failed to get him into the ring with Jack Dempsey, Wills has decided to step out and fight himself into a position where he will have to be considered.

Believed Himself Contender.

Until very recently Wills took the position that he was established as the logical contender for the championship and that he did not have to trace his steps back over the road of set-ups to prove his right for a fight with Dempsey.

Announcement was made today, however, that the colored fighter is going to change his plans and is going to devote the winter season to the job of bowling over all the trial horses that were used by Luis Angel Firpo in his campaign. The idea is to do better than Firpo did on the same push-overs.

Wills has been matched to meet Homer Smith at the Little Queensborough club here on September 27. Smith is the one who caused Tex Rickard to get the trembles by staying ten rounds with Firpo when the South American was in the process of the build-up.

Plan Trip to Pacific.

Plans are now being made for a trip to the Pacific coast on which Wills will try to take on and knock off all the heavyweights in his path.

Wills is not as good as he was two years ago. He is too well along in years to remain idle for a year and retain his form and even in his last bouts more than a year ago he showed signs of slipping.

Dempsey's activities in the future are restricted only to the field of contenders that can be built up into championship material. Only three heavyweights at the present time appear as capable challengers. Tom Gibbons deserves a return bout, and Firpo is sure to get another chance at the title, but Wills, never having had a chance, deserves the next crack at the title, and if he goes about it properly he will get it.

ONLY ONE VETERAN AT OAKLAND

OAKLAND, Neb., Sept. 20.—With only one veteran of last year's eleven reporting back for the early practices, Coach L. R. Benson faces a task of developing a new aggregation. He is not pessimistic about the prospects. Two open dates are on the schedule. The slate:

Sept. 21—Tekamah at Tekamah.
Sept. 28—Open.
Oct. 5—Rosalie at Oakland.
Oct. 12—Emerson at Oakland.
Oct. 19—Pender at Pender.
Oct. 26—Blair at Oakland.
Nov. 2—Walthill at Oakland (Tentative).
Nov. 9—Bancroft at Oakland.
Nov 29—Open.

CANUCK TOO MUCH FOR TINY HERMAN

Jack Renault Scores Knockout Over Omaha Heavyweight in Seventh Round—Would Match Renault and Firpo.

OMAHA, Sept. 21.—A short right to the jaw which did not travel more than six inches, sent "Tiny" Jim Herman crashing to the floor and ruined whatever chance the gigantic Omaha heavyweight ever had for a fight with Luis Firpo at Buenos Aires this winter.

Jack Renault, Canadian heavyweight champion, Herman's conqueror, had the best of the contest thruout, and efforts are now being made to match him with the South American here some time this winter.

Herman Takes the Count.

The fight ended suddenly in the seventh round. Straightening Herman up with a left hook to the body, Renault shot over his right and it landed flush on the "button." Herman toppled over backwards, his huge frame sprawled full length in his own corner. He was counted out and seconds worked over him for several minutes before he could be assisted from the ring.

Herman outweighed Renault by twenty-eight pounds but the latter's

OMAHA, Sept. 21.—Pat Boyle, local fight promoter today wired Luis Angel Firpo, offering the South American $25,000 to fight Jack Renault, Canadian heavyweight champion here some time this winter.

Renault last night knocked out "Tiny" Jim Herman, Omaha heavyweight, in the seventh round.

cleverness and ring generalship was too much for the Omahan. Renault piled up a big lead in points in the early rounds but apparently neither man had been hurt up to the knockout.

Herman went into the seventh round determined to even things up, while Renault's instruction from his manager, Leo Flynn, was to "get him this round."

Beats Tiny to Punch.

Herman shot over several hard lefts ot the jaw which jarred the Canadian. Herman set himself for another shot at Renault. The Canuck beat him to the punch and the knockout finished the contest.

The semi-windup was an anti-ku klux klan affair, with a Jew fighting a negro and an Irishman officiating as referee. Leo Shea gave Morrie Schlaifer, the Jew, a decision over Charley Long, negro, after ten rounds of listless fighting.

Joe Stangl, Omaha, former wrestler, and Hughie Walker, veteran Kansas City heavyweight fought six rounds to a draw.

Kid Rosegal, Omaha outpointed Ted Garten, Lincoln, in four rounds. Garten showed a complete reversal of form compared with previous performances here.

Leo Shea Returns.

The biggest surprise of the evening and the thing which made the biggest hit with the fans was the return of Leo Shea, popular referee.

Shea, considered the 'squarest" referee who ever officiated here, was banished from the city a year ago because, according to ring gossip, he refused to do the bidding of the gambling element.

Hall, New Illinois Quarterback, Gains Fame Before Season Opens

New Pilot Has Brother Who Barked Signals for Illini in 1911—Second Member of Family Will Start Against Huskers.

URBANA, Ill., Sept. 21.—Plunging from obscurity into the limelight over night is the happy fate of Harry "Swede" Hall, who is being shown preference for quarterback on the University of Illinois varsity eleven this fall.

Hall, barring accidents will probably pilot the "Fighting Illini" against Nebraska, Missouri valley champions, in the first game of the season on Illinois field, October 6.

Brother Played In 1911.

"Swede" comes by his football ability naturally for he is a brother of "Swede" Hall who piloted the 1911 Illinois team in the famous Minnesota game that year.

Entering the university in 1921, young Hall, who had distinguished himself as a football player in his home town of Waukegan, Ill., was a member of the freshman team. Last year he was not available but this year he is fit and Coach Zuppke has given him a chance to exhibit at quarterback during the early season practice.

Hall is well liked by the other players. He has an educated toe, is fast on his feet, weighs 160 pounds, and has shown excellent football judgment in driving the team from the pilot position.

Coutchie Back In School.

S. A. Coutchie, of Harvey, Ill., substitute quarterback on last year's team, is back in school and making an earnest bid for attention. Harold C. Baur of Chicago, a member of the freshman squad last year, is also showing to good advantage in the varsity tryouts for quarterback. There is also the possibility that "Rune" Clark may become eligible and try to win back his old job.

TRAINS FOR MATCH WITH ADAM KRIEGER

Eastern Middleweight Champion Prepares for Fight With Lincoln Man Here—Gus Kallio After Return Match.

Joe Turner, eastern middleweight champion among the piano movers, who wrestles Adam Krieger here next Wednesday, is working out with Ralph Paraut and will not be here until the first part of next week, according to a wire received by H. C. Wittmann, Krieger's manager, Friday.

Turner has beaten Parcaut once and was once beaten by him. Parcaut also has a victory over Krieger, but a wrenched knee sustained during the first fall proved too big a handicap for the Lincoln grappler and he was easy prey for the Iowan after that.

Gus Kallio, whom Krieger has beaten twice, is engaged in hurling salvos of challenges at Adam. Kallio stopped here for a short time enroute south where he has a match booked and confided to Manager Wittmann that a summer in the mountains of Montana had made him what he is today, and that he's entirely satisfied.

The Krieger-Turner match will be held at the Orpheum. Tickets go on sale there Saturday morning.

Yanks Getting Set For World's Series

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—(United Press)—Preparation for the world's series, in which they have taken a pledge to make a better showing, will occupy the attention of the New York Yankees for the remainder of the season. The Yankees cinched the American league pennant yesterday when they defeated the St. Louis Browns.

Maintaining stoutly that they were caught last year by the Giants in a slump that came as a reaction to the pennant fight that lasted until the closing days of the season, the players are one in declaring they will win the series this year.

They do not care what team the National league sends against them and they express the hope that it will be the Giants.

It is the third straight pennant won by the Yankees and it is the first time since 1909, when the Detroit Tigers took three in a row that an American league club has walked away with three straight championships.

HUSKERS IN FIRST SCRIMMAGE JOUST

With Little Over Two Weeks Remaining Before Illinois Game Coach Dawson Starts Bearing Down.

BY JOHN BENTLEY.

The uniform of the day with the Huskers Thursday was shoulder pads, headgears and boxing gloves. The first scrimmage of the season closed the practice.

It was short with line plunges featuring the attack of both A and B teams. The squad was divided into four teams. The A team to start had H. Dewitz and Dave Noble at half; Ced Hartman at fullback and Captain Verne Lewellen at quarter.

How They Lined Up.

Wostoupal was at center; McGlasson and Berquist at guard; Weir and Bassett at tackle and Myers and Thomsen on the wings.

After a trip across the drill field team B was given the ball and the first string line over which there has been considerable querulous discussion, had the situation fairly well in hand.

Wostoupal gathered in a fumble. The B team was composed of Hinman and Kiffen at half; Bowers, fullback; Bloodgood, quarter; Volz, Hubka, Collins, Robertson, ends; Wenkle, center; Reynolds and Rorby, guards; Hendrickson and Ogden, tackles.

With the ice officially cracked scrimmage will probably be part of the daily program for some time.

Illini Justly Confident.

Reports filtering thru from the camp of the Illini are dripping with optimism and these are not based on mere hopes. Illinois had a great sophomore team last year and Big Ten critics were promising big things for it this year. There is just a little over two weeks remaining for the Huskers to get primed for this initial test.

Coach Dawson has intimated that he will carry a big squad to Illinois. It will probably number in the neighborhood of thirty.

Lincoln Gridsters Change Omaha Date

Fred Huhold, Ernest Schact and Fred Miller, constituting the board of directors of school district No. 49 in Otoe county, have filed with the supreme court an appeal from a district court decision that said they had no legal authority to move the schoolhouse half a mile south. The owner has suspicions which are being investigated. The house was valued by Chief Talbot at $6,000, insured for $8,700, contents valued at $2,500 and insured for $2,000. The damage to the house is estimated at $1,500 and the damage to contents at $500.

J. C. McNare, a veteran ranchman from Cherry county, asks the supreme court to reverse the district court that ordered a foreclosure of a $22,500 mortgage on his ranch. The mortgage is held by David Hanna. During the war McNare bought $25,000 liberty bonds and borrowed $22,500 of the amount from Hanna. He says that the latter charged him a rate of interest in excess of the legal 10 per cent, so that in five years the excess would amount to $12,000. He was unable to convince the lower court of the validity of his defense. The McNare ranch is located near Arabia, and consists of 19,400 acres of deeded land and a lot of leased school land.

POLK PETITIONS GO BACK

Returned to Cattle Owners Who Desire State and Federal Indemnity for Tuberculosis.

Mark Timm of Osceola has written Secretary Shumway of the department of agriculture in reply to a statement that petitions from that county for enforcement of law for eradication of bovine tuberculosis are not in compliance with the law. Mr. Timm asks for the return of the petitions with a statement of what Mr. Shumway desires in the way of petitions and what the law requires. "We will get them right or get new ones," writes Mr. Timm. Thus far no legal petition is on file from any county asking for enforcement of the law relating to indemnity for tuberculosis cattle under what is called cooperative area work.

Complaint has been filed with the state department of agriculture by Will C. Heelan of Valentine that cattle driven from South Dakota to Valentine, Cody, Ell and Merriman are loaded and shipped in cars on the Northwestern Railroad company without the necessary certificate showing the cattle to be free from disease. At present an embargo exists against South Dakota cattle from certain regions infected with anthrax. Deputy Secretary Shumway of the department of agriculture will ask the railroad company to comply with the law relating to certificate of health. Dairy stock driven in from another state. Horses are also mentioned in the complaint. Accordingly, to a report to the department, no new cases of anthrax have appeared in South Dakota the past six weeks.

STOLEN AUTO QUIT RUNNING

And Broke Down in Front of the Sheriff's Auto at Milwaukee.

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 21. Stolen automobiles should not be allowed to break down in front of the sheriff's office, according to Hal Wylie, sheriff of Dallas, S. D.

Wylie became incensed when an automobile wheezed, coughed and stopped in front of his office. He questioned the three men in the car and learned, he said, that the car in the had been stolen.

The men, Irving Brown, Council Bluffs, Ia., and Samuel and Chas. Morton, Cincinnati, were brought here and are being held on a charge of auto theft.

Magical Beautifiers for Women.

Women everywhere are using all kinds of beautifiers, only to find that their effect are transitory. The real requisite of beauty is health. When it the steps lag, eyes are lusterless, dark circles appear beneath them, the complexion becomes sallow, and almost invariably the underlying cause is some ailment peculiar to women. There is a very inexpensive remedy for this condition in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which for nearly fifty years has been relieving women from some of the worst forms of female ills. Why not let it help you to health and beauty and the joys of living?—Advertisement

BRYAN COMMENTS UPON BRYAN COAL

Asserts Lincoln Municipal Coal at $8.25 Is Sold at $1.25 Per Ton More Than It Is Worth.

Governor Bryan received information Friday that the Lincoln city coal yard attendants are showing one kind of coal for sale at $8.25 a ton which customers are informed is the "Bryan" coal, and another pile of coal at $9.50 is shown as municipal coal.

"I have been informed there is really but one kind of coal at the Lincoln municipal coal yard," said Governor Bryan, but in regard to the $8.25 coal if it is what the trade knows as standard Illinois coal, it is being sold for $1.25 a ton more than it ought to be sold for in Lincoln, and I am wondering how long the municipal coal yard is going to be run for the benefit of dealers instead of the people."

That Governor Bryan's municipal coal campaign has spread to the four quarters of the earth is indicated from letters he received Friday from Maine and New York. A Brooklyn man writes that he desires to cooperate with Governor Bryan in developing coal fields in West Virginia and Pennsylvania. A man at Uniontown, Pa., writes the governor to commend him in his coal campaign and to discuss withh im the question of steam coal. A man at Lewistown, Me., writes to ask the name of some one from whom coal can be bought. He informs the governor that he will order in ten car lots and that dealers there are charging $19 a ton of coal.

Governor Bryan does not desire to make known the names of his correspondents for fear of what the national coal combine might do to prevent a business deal between them.

The governor has requests or inquiries about coal from nine more cities in Nebraska, and orders for three more carloads for cities out in the state.

SEEK TO APPLY A DOCTRINE

Attorneys Tell Court Merchant Responsible for Assault on Customer by Employe.

The supreme court heard arguments Friday morning in two cases. One of these involves a new question of law in Nebraska. It is an effort on the part of attorneys representing one Crounse to have the court hold that a merchant is responsible in damages if any customer or other person invited by his business to come upon his premises is assaulted and injured by an employe. The Booth fisheries is the defendant. The case comes from Douglas county.

The doctrine is well established in law that an innkeeper and common carriers are responsible on the theory that what the employe does is in the scope of his employment. A hotel man or a railroad undertakes to care for persons who come upon their premises, and if they are hurt while there by an employed they are responsible. The Nebraska court has not applied this to merchants. In this case Crounse went into a Booth place to transact some business and while there got into an altercation with an employe and was hrown out.

The other case is from Dawes county, where W. H. Parsons obtained a judgment of $5,000 against the Northwestern. He was a member of a train crew, and part of the work was to push back a car that had obtruded on the line and was standing in such a position that a beam or bar had to be used, the other end against a moving car. Parsons says that a piece of gas pipe, an unsafe appliance was used, instead of the wooden beam ordinarily employed. The pressure caused it to fly up and hurtling thru the air hit him on the foot.

BOOTLEGGER GOES BLIND

Detroit Lawbreaker Punished by a Higher Court Than That of Man.

DETROIT, Sept. 21.—Sometimes a higher court than those conducted by man punishes an individual for his sins.

Dan Slacker, forty-three years old, admits he has been selling moonshine adulterated with wood alcohol in his blind pig for the last year. He retailed it freely and without stint at 25 cents a drink. Some of the whisky he made himself; the remainder he purchased from an East Side moonshiner; into all of it he poured small quantities of the alcohol to "give it a kick." He knew that he was poisoning his patrons, yet, he admits, he didn't care.

Today, by a queer twist of fate, Slacker is in receiving hospital propped up on a cot in the darkest corner of the ward, blind from drinking his own whisky. As his eyes, dull and expressionless, struggle for the light, he shrugs his shoulders and laughs. Beside him stands a policeman, his guard.

"Sure, I'm blind," said Slacker. "It came three days ago. I felt it coming. I couldn't stop drinking my own stuff."

Slacker was arrested June 9 on a charge of violating the state prohibition law and was sentenced Sept. 6 to the House of Correction by Judge John Faust.

"You felt it coming?"

Slacker laughed hysterically "Sure, I did. The moonshine didn't hurt my customers any; I thought it wouldn't hurt me. I used to drink maybe a pint or so of it a day. Everybody came for blocks around for my whisky. It had a kick. Women drank and kids got it for their parents; I handed it out to everyone, wood alcohol and all. It's all in the game, you know."

"And it made you blind?"

Slacker laughed again. There seemed, however, to be an undertone of terror in his laugh. His eyes again strained for the light.

Here Slacker turned to the wall. He extended his hand slowly and cautiously and felt the plaster.

"I suppose it's white," he said. A moment passed. The eyelids flicker as Slacker's queer, strained gaze sought vainly to gather in his surroundings. His laugh died into a groan.

"Stone blind! Who would have thought it? But, say, it sure was wonderful hooch."

Dr. Thomas K. Gruber, superintendent, says there is no possibility of Slacker recovering his sight.

With One Possible Exception.

Little Barbara, aged four, was getting undressed for bed when her father entered the room. It was the first time she had seen him in evening clothes, immaculate from crown to shoe tips, and the child was strongly impressed by his appearance.

"Daddy, you are the very prettiest man I ever saw," she confided, snuggling in his arms for a good night kiss. "I think you are the prettiest man there is."

"Bah, you're a flatterer!" he laughed, by no means displeased by her appraisal. "Surely not the handsomest man in the world?"

"Well, daddy," she replied, as one who desires to be just above all else, "of course I haven't seen God yet."—Boston Transcript.

The New Autumn Corsets

The prevailing modes make corsets a necessity—for the new gown can be worn successfully only with corsets that maintain a straight silhouette.

The new models of "La Camille" carry out the very spirit of the styles themselves. They are as dainty as milady's lingerie. Low-topped and lightly boned. Not a suggestion of a pinch or squeeze in them. Restful and flexible in their style-giving support.

The Right Corset Is Essential in Wearing the New Styles

Your new dresses will be successful only if they drape properly. Curves must be suppressed, hips and back must be flat. Wrinkles spoil the effect. To dress correctly sounds difficult, but really is easy with the help of "La Camille." It gives the correct background. You will be delighted and your friends envious. And you will feel as young as you look, with the slendering lines that the corset has helped to give.

Have Your Corset Fitted Before Buying Your New Dresses

Over La Camille the new styles will become you to perfection. Never have the styles offered greater encouragement to figures of all types. But never has the need of care and taste been so essential. There is a model of "La Camille" designed for your individual figure. Selected and fitted by our trained corsetieres, it will give you the correct mode, with complete comfort.

LATEST MARKETS

CHICAGO, Sept. 21.—Grain prices were generally unchanged at the opening on the Chicago board of trade today.

Following a dull and unchanged opening, commission houses assumed the selling side in wheat and prices broke sharply. It was the opinion among traders that houses with eastern and southwestern connections who bought heavily during yesterday's trading, has taken on too great a supply and sought the open market for relief. Receipts here totaled 109 cars.

A strong cash market, together with unfavorable weather and crop news, strengthened September corn. There was little done in the optional months and prices were unchanged to slightly lower. Receipts were 160 cars.

Oats remained dull and unchanged on a featureless market. Receipts, 55 cars.

A better cash demand and favorable cables brought a small advance in provisions.

Chicago Tribune Report.

CHICAGO, Sept. 21.—Wheat traders are disposed to look for prices to work somewhat higher unless there is a material increase in the selling pressure. The short interest, however, has been cut down and as it has given the market a great deal of help of late its effect should not be ignored.

It was said one of the largest American milling concerns was a good buyer of wheat futures yesterday, which helped strengthen that market.

Corn traders had it that a good sized line of short December corn recently put out was taken in thru a half dozen commission houses.

A seaboard exporter says he can see nothing on which to buy wheat and predicts that there will be large imports of Canadian wheat after the present demand is satisfied.

A report that congress will be asked to pass a new tariff bill increasing the import duty on Canadian wheats was one of the factors in influencing the late buying and advance in futures. The 30 cents a bushel duty at present has failed to keep Canadian wheat out of the United States and it is claimed that a higher import duty will aid the farmers by keeping out the Canadian wheats.

It is said frost damage to corn is greater than expected and the trade is beginning to realize it. Commission houses had more buying orders from the country yesterday.

Feeders in northwest Iowa have contracted for the deferred delivery, in Whiteside county, for corn on a basis of 60c per bushel. It is figured that at the rate farmers in the Canadian northwest are delivering wheat at country points they would market their entire crop inside of eighty days. The fact that about 50 per cent of the crop must be taken care of before the close of navigation accounts for the large movement.—Lamson.

Grain Market Opinions.

J. M. Simpson: The wheat market is showing resistance to the bearish news that is current and would suggest that the depressing factors had, to a large extent, been discounted. Whether or not the most notable buying of corn yesterday was short covering or investment buying is hard to determine. The wet weather and reports of damage by the recent cold weather induced considerable short covering and some fresh investment buying, but scattered commission houses supplied the demand. I do not look for much further advance for the moment.

Bartlett, Frazier & Co.: Believe wheat market in shape to work some higher. Cash corn prices not apt to weaken materially for some time.

Hulburd, Warren & Chandler: See little in present situation to warrant bull campaign.

Stein-Alstrin: Recommend conservative trading attitude.

Harris, Winthrop & Co.: Can see no lack of supply for European needs from other countries at cheaper price levels. The corn crop needs dry, warm weather.

Clement Curtis & Co.: Likelihood of favorable developments at Washington warrants expectation of continued strength in wheat.

J. E. Bennett & Co.: Short covering in wheat should tend to advance prices temporarily. Would not follow bulges in corn.

Logan & Bryan: Any further advance in wheat will probably bring out increased hedging pressure. Marketing of poor quality corn may affect market adversely.

Riordan & Martin: Wheat looks like a purchase on declines. Would be cautious about buying corn on the advances.—Lamson.

Post & Flagg Stock Letter.

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—In the early trading yesterday prices held quite firm, but in the afternoon the market again turned weak. Many securities made new lows. The rails and sugars were the exception, which held a steady tone all day. There is nothing of a decisive nature in the way of news regarding the Franco-German situation, but it is generally believed that a final adjustment of the reparations question is progressing favorably.

There is much discussion about the street in regard to the independent oil situation and many seem to think these stocks are fairly liquidated and that the worst is discounted and should soon cease to be a market factor.

We look for an unsettled market today, with probably little change in prices.—Lamson.

Omaha Livestock Market.

OMAHA, Sept. 21.—Cattle—Receipts, 400. Not enough cattle of any class were here today to test the market, which ruled nominally steady. The week's trade is around 50c lower on corn-fed stock, 25c off on grass beeves and 25@40c lower on she stock. Stockers and feeders were as much as 25@40c lower at one time, but have regained part of this loss.

Hogs—Receipts, 3,500. Scant receipts, together with an active demand, gave the general market considerable snap this morning with shippers taking most of their stuff at prices largely 15c higher, with some of the real choice butchers going as much as 25c higher. Packer trade was also active, with prices 15@20c higher. Bulk of sales, $7.65@8.25, top $8.50.

Sheep—Receipts, 3,000. Fat lambs were scarce and with demand good prices looked fully steady to a little stronger. Feeders were also active at fully steady prices. Clipped lambs sold mostly around $12.75.

OMAHA, Sept. 21.—Cattle—Receipts, 400; market, nominally steady; yearlings, $7.50@11.50; steers, $7.50@12.00; cows and heifers, $2.25@6.25; stockers and feeders, $3.50@9.00; calves, $4.00@9.50, bulls and stags, $3.25@3.75; western rangers, $4.25@9.25.

New York Liberty Bonds.

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—U. S. liberty bonds were quoted here today as follows: 3½'s 99.26, first 4¼'s, 98.04; second 4¼'s, 98.05; third 4¼'s, 98.29; fourth 4¼'s, 98.05; new 4¼'s, 99.23.

Stock Market Opinions.

Clark, Childs & Co.: Despite some slowing down in business, it seems advisable to look for bargains in certain industrials and rails.

Wollman & Co.: Look for lower and irregular trend at opening.

Harris, Winthrop & Co.: A lower range is probable today.

Housman & Co.: Don't expect any material change in character of market.

Post & Flagg: Easier money will help the market in time.

Thomson-McKinnon: Values may sag to lower levels.—Lamson.

Wall Street Journal Review.

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—An extraordinary improvement was shown by the federal reserve bank statement. The combined ratio at 77.7 was less than half a point from the year's high, while the figure for the local regional institution jumped in a single week from 81.3 to 87.7, the highest point since August 9, 1922.

This remarkable gain probably explained the 3½ per cent for call money Wednesday and Thursday. Stocks, however, continued heavy in the early dealings on the stock exchange, showing little recovery from Thursday's close, which stood at the lowest level reached since July 31.

Opening prices: California Petroleum 17⅞, up ¼; Bethlehem "B" 47⅛, off ⅛; General Electric 168½; U. S. Steel 87⅛; New York Central 100½; Baldwin 115, up ⅞; B. & O. 48⅞, off ⅛; Texas company 49⅞; Erie 13¼; General Motors 13⅞, off ⅛; Northern Pacific 57⅞, off ⅛; American Can 90⅜, up ¼; American Woolen 78½, up ¼; Pan-American 55⅛, off ⅜; Pan-American "B" 53⅞, off ⅜; Studebaker 100¾, up ⅛; Reading 74¾, up ⅝; Cosden 24⅝, up ⅜; Sinclair 17⅞, up ⅛.

The industrials failed to follow up the improvement shown around 11 o'clock and a dull, sagging tendency market their movements in the late morning.

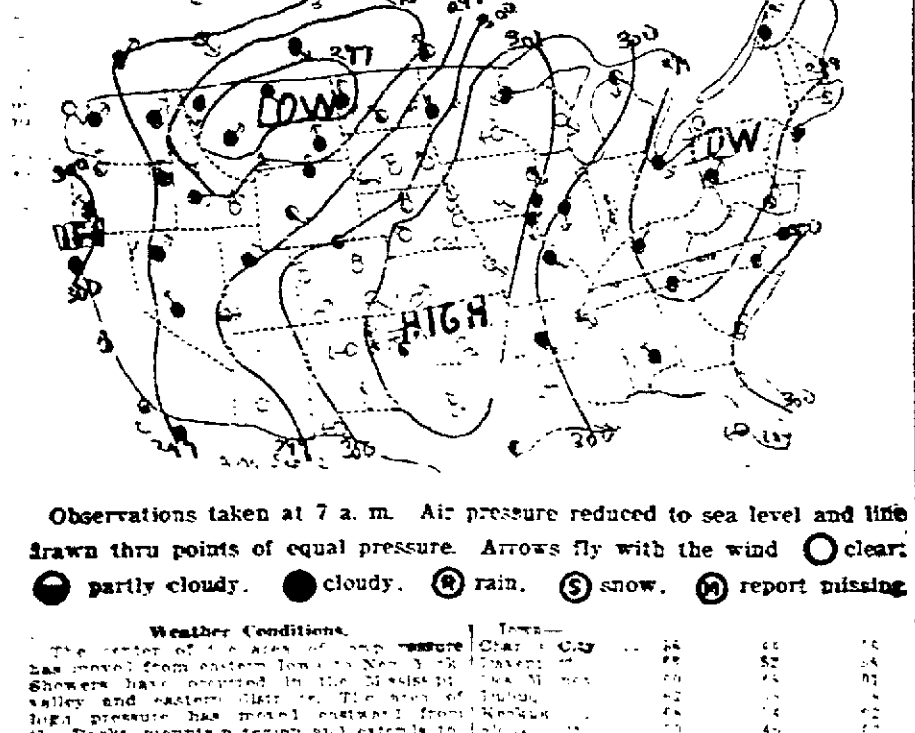

Cosden was the depressing influence, reaching a new low on the movement at 23⅝.

The Jarr Family.

"Look here!" cried Mrs. Jarr, as she glanced up from the evening paper, "the Dilgers are divorced!"

"Why, I thought they got along so nicely together, after they remarried?" remarked Mr. Jarr. "Didn't they get divorced three years ago and then marry again?"

"Oh, that was Mr. Dilger's first divorce," said Mrs. Jarr. "He got a divorce from his first wife, who had been divorced from her first husband, who divorced his wife to marry her, and then he went back to his first wife, who had gotten a divorce from her second husband—it was all in the papers, you know," she added.

"It has my head in a whirl," replied Mr. Jarr. "And this second wife of Dilger's, how about her?"

"Why, it's as simple as can be," said Mrs. Jarr. "Mr. Dilger divorced his first wife, who married again; then Mr. Dilger married his second wife after she got a divorce, and now his second wife will marry the divorced husband of the first Mrs. Dilger, whom she married after she got a divorce from Mr. Dilger."

"Great scott, it just throws me into a perspiration to try to follow it," replied Mr. Jarr.

"I think it's terrible the way people get divorced these days!" sighed Mrs. Jarr. "Well, there's no danger of us getting divorced!" said Mr. Jarr. "My motto is 'One country, one flag, one wife!'"

"Oh, how nice of you!" exclaimed Mrs. Jarr. "You speak as if you were the only one to be satisfied, and so long as you were satisfied it didn't matter what I thought."

"Well, aren't you satisfied?" asked Mr. Jarr.

"I have to be," said Mrs. Jarr. "There's the children to think of. But I wonder who is responsible for these many divorces," she went on. "A lot of people seem to regard matrimony now, not as a sacrament but as a habit."

"I think it's the women [illegible] bring most of the suits," ventured Mr. Jarr. "Modern women are not domestic in their tastes. They want to be in business or be running around to clubs and show themselves at the big hotels and go to matinees and so forth [illegible] all the time."

"Yes, most men marry because they [illegible] everything, he marries and expects his wife to be his housekeeper and nurse for him."

"I don't see how you can say that," replied Mr. Jarr. "The world is full of sensible people still. If you will look at the people who are afflicted with marital unrest you'll note that the divorced man usually marries the divorced woman, and vice versa."

"And why not?" asked Mrs. Jarr. "They are just suited to each other. Neither has any respect for decent ways of living."

"Ah, I thought you'd agree with me," replied Mr. Jarr. "A good woman with a good husband, a pair like you and I never think of such a thing."

"Don't be too sure of that!" said Mrs. Jarr. "You'd better be on your good behavior. You can't tell what will happen."

And having thrown this terrific scare into Mr. Jarr, she asked him if he couldn't let her have $20.

Wet Cellar.

It was the new commuter's first experience with a flooded basement.

"Five trunks filled with goods," he wailed. "One of 'em held our table linen. Hadn't had time to unpack it since we moved in. Total loss."

The oldest inhabitant grinned.

"Shucks," he retorted, "the laundry'll fix it good as new. Don't let a little thing like that discourage you. I've been here fourteen years and this is the first time I've had water in my basement."

"One carpet was ruined," persisted the new commuter.

"That's nothing compared to what Diggles is up against," said the oldest inhabitant. "He's got one of those modern first floor on the street level bungalows. You know the kind—seven feet of basement under ground. When he woke up this morning there was an inch of water on the parlor and dining room floors."

The pessimist shook his head.

"There were a lot of heirlooms of my wife's," he persisted.

"You'll live to bless the day they were flooded," said the oldest inhabitant. "But of course you have been married only five years and you don't understand.

"I do. I have just got rid of an old-fashioned chromo—an heirloom. Destroy it? Not much. That thing used to hang in the parlor of the old farm house. Therefore it was a treasure. But the colors were blurred in the water and now, glory be, it's on the dump pile."

"But the back of my lot."

"A nice duck pond. Shows you where you need to fill in."

"It's that real estate dealer's fault," persisted the gloomy newcomer. "'Mr. Schnitzler,' I said to him, 'I've heard about the trouble with sewers out here. Is that basement dry?

"'As dry as my own,' says he, 'and I live on the highest lot in town.'"

"If it's any consolation to you," said the oldest inhabitant on the street, "Schnitzler had three feet of water in his cellar. The street drains were so flooded that they wouldn't carry it off. His washing machine went floating. His lawnmower was ruined——."

"I begin to fell better," said the newcomer, venturing a smile.

Noisy Laughter.

Chicago Daily News: "I guess Sis will be getting a new beau pretty soon," remarked the handsome young man to his father.

"What for?" complained the father. "What's the matter with this particular fellow?"

"He's all right," said the handsome young man. "But Sis is going to have to can him because he's not satisfactory as a movie escort and when a fellow falls down in that capacity these days then he doesn't do at all, because taking a girl to the movies is a beau's principal stunt. But the trouble with Fish is that he has a bum laugh."

"A bum laugh!" groaned the father.

"Yes. You see he has a keen appreciation of those 'puns from the press' that they flash on the screen and he throws back his head and roars at everyone of them.

"This laugh of Fish's attracts considerable attention in a crowded theater, much more than Sis wants to attract. Its something like this. 'A woman's favorite word is always the last one.' Right away Fish opens up his bazoo long and loud, shaking the rafters and then everybody looks around to see who's laughing. They see him and Sis and think he's the man who made up the joke and that the young lady is the inspiration of it.

"'Kissing may be dangerous, but we're not scared!' Then out booms Fish again, and everybody looks around again and thinks that he and Sis are offering testimony to that effect. Sis gets madder and madder as her escort continues to make the rafters ring. 'A pretty saleslady is a counter attraction!' Haw, haw, haw! laughs Fish and people look around again, and seeing how mad Sis is they conclude that she is jealous and suspicious of her escort for seeing the point so well. Then when he grows uproarious over the suggestion that it is better to be with a fool than to fool with a bee, she feels as if she's being stung.

"So she isn't going to endure that kind of thing any longer. She's going to get a fellow who will laugh at such things very slightly, if at all, and also exercise some tact in selecting the things to be amused at."

"Quite right, quite right," admitted the parent.

MEN AND THINGS.

One of the tragedies of the economic situation is the fact that most of the victims of the higher levels of prices are the widows and orphans. These, with the men and women who have done their share of the world's work and have retired to live on their savings, form the fixed income class who have no means of getting back part of their added assessment for living. There is a lot said about the power of the bankers, but whatever they do possess does not give them power to raise the interest rates sufficient to recompense those whose incomes rise or fall with this return. Business and labor are so organized that in the long run they can protect themselves thru their power of organization, but the workers who are unorganized and those whose incomes are determined by the wage for money bear the big brunt of the advances.

Some feather-headed minister down east who went to see the Dempsey-Firpo prize fight says he got a holy thrill by watching the gladiators. He got nothing of the kind; it was an unholy thrill and he did not have religion enough to note the difference. There is nothing about a prize fight that is hallowed or sacred, and that is what holy means. The brutality of the affair was not redeemed by any exhibition of skill. Two big giants simply flailed away at one another, forgetting entirely whatever they had been taught of boxing, and it was simply a question of which could stand being knocked about most. The shades of Corbett, Fitzsimmons and other old masters must have shivered that night.

Before the automobile came we used horses for the purpose of pulling our pleasure vehicles. If we got eight or ten miles an hour out of them we felt that we were cutting the wind at a tremendous rate. But if you run your car at ten miles an hour you drain your battery and weary your guests. The psychologist could give a long and perhaps interesting explanation why ten miles an hour was rapid going in the days of horses and molasses like in its character now that we use the automobile, but we suspect that the speed germ has always been in our system, and needed only an opportunity to get into action. Riding on fast trains always had a fascination, as most will recall, and the automobile is supplying much of this today.

The only socialist daily of any prominence in the country turned up its toes in New York the other day, and is now being issued by union labor. This was the New York Call. A socialist cannot be trusted to run a newspaper. He is so filled to the brim with his queer notions about things that he must inject his opinion into everything he writes, and when a newspaper mixes opinion with its news it is betraying those who read it and violating the traditions of the business. Opinion is propaganda in one of its most insidious forms. It is a deliberate effort to enlist the interest and support of the reader in what is being attempted, and while this is legitimate in the editorial columns it has no business in the news department. Injecting it there is the most effective way to gain the end sought, but it is poisoning the news.

A great many arguments are insincere, and that is probably one reason why we decline to listen to them. One may idly advance an opinion, caring little about it and having no real positive convictions on the subject; but if he finds what he says sharply challenged, he is roused to its defense, and before he realizes it he is championing stiffly and vehemently something that in moments of calm reflection he would not trouble himself about. Those of us who have dropped some declaration of belief into a group discussion purely from a sportive instinct, have had the experience often of finding ourselves championing this in a war of words in which we lose sight of what we actually believe about the matter. No wonder argument has lost its charm save to the naturally combative.

If you desire to find out who is the most hopeless reactionary, conservative and old fogy in your neighborhood, ask some of the young folks. They will tell you that the description exactly fits their parents. They are hopelessly behind the times in their views on what is proper conduct, dress and deportment. They do not seem to realize that the world has changed and moved forward since they were young, and that standards that were then accepted are no longer in vogue. The young folks found that they hampered their own freedom of action and desire to do whatever they please, and so they repealed them. When they have time they will write a new set of standards, which they will row over with their children a little later on. The fact that the standards they despise are those around which we have grouped a pretty decent sort of civilization matters nothing.

"This would be a dandy day t' find a doctor," said Mrs. Em. Moots, as she watched th' rain fall in torrents. "Ther' must be a couple o' Europes," says Squire Marsh Swallow, who's been readin' th' reports of our return-in' statesmen.

League Has Fifty-two Varieties.

Philadelphia Public Ledger: A Cuban has been chosen to preside over the deliberations of the league of nations. Of the six nations which have not sent delegates to Geneva this year, five are in South or Central America. The selection of the Cuban may serve to emphasize to his own country and to the Latin American absentees the particular importance to these lands of the settlement for disputes by arbitration instead of at the edge of the machete. There are fifty-two countries in the league, and their population is three-quarters of the entire number of the earth's inhabitants. Young as it is, the league represents a public opinion too considerable to ignore.
